WHITTAKER TELLS TRAGIC BURIAL FROM RAFT AT SEA

Rickenbacker Holds Dying Sergeant in His Arms.

(This is the seventh instalment of the story—told here in full for the first time—of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and seven companions and their three weeks' fight for life against the perils of the equatorial Pacific. It is told by Lt. James C. Whittaker of the army transport command, co-pilot of the Flying Fortress which was crashed into the sea Oct. 21 after running out of fuel.)

BY LT. JAMES C. WHITTAKER,
U. S. Army Air Force Transport Command.
As told to CHARLES LEAVELLE of the Chicago Tribune.
[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Thru the late watches of the chilling night, my feeling persisted that our prayers for water would be answered. But there was a feeling also of apprehension.

In 10 days of helpless drifting on the empty Pacific, 10 days of almost no water or food, I seemed to have become strangely psychic. Death was ready, at last, to strike at our little band.

The sun rose behind a threatening cloud bank on that 11th morning, and in a short while blessed rain was flooding down upon our rafts. We were wise by this time and used every facility available for catching and storing water. We cut the inflated seat out of the raft I was in and used it as a rain catcher, storing the water in Capt. William T. Cherry's Mae West [rubber life jacket]. We slaked our thirst.

Waves Upset Raft.

It was a squally rain, however, and high waves upset the tiny two man raft carrying Lt. John J. De Angelis, navigator on our ill-fated Flying Fortress, and Sergt. Alex Kaczmarzyk, a passenger who had been en route to join his unit in the southwest Pacific.

The little rubber "doughnut" was righted easily enough, but we had a difficult time getting the sergeant back into it. It became apparent at once that Alex was in a bad way. Exhaustion, exposure, thirst, and hunger had dissipated the store of strength he had mustered after leaving the hospital in Hawaii, where he had spent 45 days with yellow jaundice.

In addition he had been drinking salt water in the vain hope of quenching his terrible thirst. He now made several meaningless remarks and shouted. Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker spoke sharply, trying to snap him out of it.

Taken Under Rick's Wing.

When Alex's true condition was realized, however, Rick took him into the larger raft which he occupied with Col. Hans Adamson, his military aide, and Pvt. Johnny Bartek. Rick sent Bartek over to the smaller raft with Lt. De Angelis.

During that day Alex was given regular doles of water. There was no food to give him. During the night Rick held the boy—he was only 19—in his arms to protect him from the spray and to keep him warm. He seemed better at dawn of our 12th day adrift, but it was the last dawn he ever was to see.

Alex appeared to rest pretty well during the day, and in the evening he insisted on going back to his own raft. De Angelis went over to Rickenbacker's boat and Johnny Bartek rode the little raft with Alex. As the night wore on, Alex's delirium returned. Then some time after midnight, he grew suddenly quiet.

Death Takes Sergeant.

At 2 a. m. Bartek called to us:

"Hey, you fellows, I think Alex is dead."

We pulled the rafts together and Rickenbacker, Cherry, and I examined him. It was true. Rickenbacker said we could do nothing until daylight, so the rafts were allowed to string out again.

When our 13th dawn came up I saw that Johnny Bartek had been holding his little khaki covered Testament in his hand, tho it was too dark to read. The east flamed up in spectacular red and gold and the sun seemed to leap out of the sea into the sky.

We pulled the rafts together and

TOMORROW—RICK KEEPS 'EM GOING THRU THE WORST

In tomorrow's instalment Lt. James C. Whittaker tells how the rafts carrying Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and the other six surviving members of his party drifted into the doldrums, where the searing heat of the sun, thirst, and their weakened condition caused several of the men, including Whittaker, to become delirious.

Capt. Rickenbacker.

Whittaker describes his imaginary conversations with Davy Jones and Davy's assistant, Jim Blood, and how he believed they were driving down a highway past neon lighted roadhouses.

He relates that it was during this period of their greatest suffering that Rickenbacker worked hardest to keep up the men's morale, flaying them verbally until they swore they would live just to spite him.

Ministers Cite Faith of Rick's Party on Rafts

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Lt. James C. Whittaker's Christian faith as found with Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and six companions on rubber rafts in the equatorial Pacific, probably was cited in more Chicago pulpits yesterday than has been the case with any other modern incident.

The Rev. John B. Hubbard, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, Park Ridge, in his sermon yesterday, called on his congregation to read THE TRIBUNE series and "live" it.

"Capt. Rickenbacker is a valiant soldier," he said. "THE TRIBUNE stories of his experience are making a profound religious impact."

Tells of Thrill.

The Rev. Charles R. Goff's praise for the testimony of Christian faith, before the congregation of First Methodist church, Chicago temple, cited the "spiritual thrill sent across the land" by the articles.

"And why?" the loop pastor inquired. "Because the story is new? No! But precisely because it is old. When we read about those prayer meetings, eight men tossed in fragile rubber boats, starved, thirst craved, and weakened by fearful exposure, we try to put ourselves in their places, and know in the depths of our hearts that put to that extremity, we, too, would welcome the Bible as a book of life and that prayer would be a true thing."

Recalls Story of Elijah.

In developing his sermon theme that the Bible is the word of God, before the congregation of St. John's Lutheran church, Montrose and Lavergne avenues, the Rev. Henry Blanke compared the lighting of the sea swallow on Capt. Rickenbacker's head with Elijah being fed by the raven.

"Some ridicule the Biblical account of Elijah being fed by a raven," Pastor Blanke declared, "yet the identical thing was expressed by Capt. Rickenbacker."

Explains Experiences at Sea.

The question of to whom the glory of the Lord is revealed was asked of his morning congregation by the Rev. Edwin H. Pflug, as he spoke of the faith of Capt. Rickenbacker and his companions, at St. Paul's Lutheran church, 76th street and Dorchester avenue.

"The glory of the Lord is revealed to those who see how much they need Him," Pastor Pflug answered.

The dramatic episode was used at Lutheran vespers, Kimball hall, yesterday afternoon as evidence of God's promise: "Lo, I am with you alway." The preacher was the Rev. Herbert Kohn, pastor of Nazareth Lutheran church, 60th street and Spaulding avenue.

Russians Capture Millerovo; Advance on 500 Mile Front

(Maps on page 5.)

LONDON, Jan. 18 [Monday]—(AP).—The Red army was threatening Kamensk, only 85 miles north of Rostov, today after capturing Millerovo, another important railway junction on the Rostov-Moscow line, and other Russian armies pushed on into the Ukraine toward Kharkov and the Maikop oil fields in the Caucasus.

147

Two communiques broadcast by Moscow and heard here by the soviet monitor announced that the Russians had seized 26 towns and railway points in an offensive rolling on a 500 mile front in southern Russia from Voronezh to the Caucasus. Dozens of other localities also were captured.

Millerovo, virtually surrounded since Dec. 24, is 130 miles north of Rostov, but the Russians also announced the capture of Kalitvenskaya on the Donetz river only 12 miles east of Kamensk, to the south.

Announce Day's Results.

Altho the Germans were fighting stubbornly, the Russians announced these results for yesterday's operations in southern Russia:

South of Voronezh: The capture of Alekseyeevka, 118 miles northeast of Kharkov on the Voronezh-Kharkov railway. Korotoyak, 32 miles northeast of Alekseyeevka, also fell.

Northern Donetz river front: Millerovo, Kalitvenskaya, and six other towns and railway stations captured. Kalitvenskaya is only 18 miles northeast of Likhaya, where the Moscow-Rostov and Stalingrad-Likhaya railways join above Rostov.

Northern Caucasus: Red army troops pushing down the Stalingrad-Tikhoretsk railway and on both sides of that line took Elmut, only eight miles from Proletarskaya, and 23 miles short of Salsk, 100 miles southeast of Rostov and connected with that city by rail. Other soviet units operating along the Don river and just below it are reported fighting just 60 miles east of Rostov.

Drive Ahead in Caucasus.

Central Caucasus: Russian units pushing northwestward along the Mineralnye Vody-Rostov railway line captured Kursavka, 35 miles from Mineralnye Vody and 70 miles southeast of Armavir on the Kuban river. Kursavka is about 125 miles east of the Maikop oil fields.

This great Russian drive from three sides toward Rostov obviously was the one of greatest peril for the Germans who have been rolled back from Stalingrad except for the remnants of 22 trapped Nazi divisions just west of Stalingrad, which was in its 147th day of siege today. The German forces, estimated at 50,000, were compressed in a triangular area of about 200 square miles.

The Russians also claimed continued success in the Veliki Luki area northwest of Moscow.

For the first time, the Germans yesterday admitted by inference the fall of Veliki Luki, which the Russians claimed to have captured Jan. 2.

APPEAL TO F.D.R. TO TAKE OVER OPERATION SEEN

Lewis Is Ignored in Union Action.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 17 [Special].—A majority of Pennsylvania's striking anthracite miners defied the war labor board and rejected the appeals of John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers of America president, today by voting to continue their wildcat strike begun 18 days ago.

Their action was a virtual invitation for government intervention in the dispute which started as a protest against a 50 cents monthly dues increase voted at the UMWA convention last fall to build up a "post-war fund." To this protest the miners have since added a demand for an immediate $2 a day wage increase.

13,500 Vote for Strike.

A total of 13,500 miners of 13 local unions in district 1, where the present strike centers, voted today to continue the walkout which has almost stopped production in the anthracite fields and raised the threat of a shortage of this type of fuel. Nine other locals, containing 8,400 members, heeded the WLB ultimatum today and voted to go back to work tomorrow. The four remaining locals involved had yet to vote on the back to work issue.

All the local meetings today were held after the tridistrict mine committee, branded as "an illegal group" by Lewis, had met and voted to disband, with a recommendation that all the locals under its jurisdiction go back to work. Andrew Yevchak, president of the tridistrict committee, brought the strike originally to the attention of the WLB, declaring that if the WLB did not consider the issues involved—elimination of the dues increase and an increase in wages—there would be a general strike in the hard coal fields.

Hint U. S. May Take Over.

The WLB in its ultimatum following Yevchak's threat last week, said it would "employ all the powers within its jurisdiction" to end the walkout. This was interpreted to mean that it would recommend that President Roosevelt take over the mines in the name of the government if necessary.

A possibility that some of the locals might reconsider their action was seen when several of those that voted called meetings for tomorrow.

John Kmetz, international UMWA board member from district 1, said he was trying to get in touch with Thomas Kennedy, international secretary treasurer.

Charges Interference.

"If a secret ballot were taken, I'm sure they all would go back," Kmetz said. "There are outside contacts interfering. People attended local meetings who had no business there. I know, because I attended a meeting and saw them.

"The only thing I can say now is that I hope those who are meeting tomorrow will see the thing from a patriotic standpoint and return to work."

Only one dissenting voice was recorded when a voice vote was taken at the tridistrict meeting on the back-to-work proposal. Louis Novitski, representing Panther Creek local at Lansford, shouted:

Yevchak Says: Back Lewis.

Yevchak, before the dissolution vote of the tridistrict general committee, told the 600 delegates to the meeting:

"Altho I have doubted Lewis before, I recommend that you back him up. He told me he knows we are underpaid and that our conditions are subnormal. But we must observe the law of the union contract to save labor contracts thruout the country.

"When our contract expires April 30 Lewis has promised to get what the miners want—a substantial wage increase. And when I say substantial I mean more than $2 a day, plus time and a half for every Saturday and double time for Sunday."

SHIP DAMAGED, WORKER HURT IN BLAST AT TACOMA

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 17 (AP).—An explosion in an acetylene line at the Seattle-Tacoma shipyards here tonight injured one man and fire resulting from the explosion did considerable damage to wooden ways.

The injured man was Homer Bowen, 35 years old, of Puyallup. The fire was quickly brought under control, and the hull under construction on the ways escaped serious damage.

The yard is engaged in building escort vessels for the navy. The 13th naval district said the explosion resulted from a leak in an acetylene line to one of the vessels in the process of construction. Extent of the injuries to Bowen, a workman at the yard, could not immediately be learned.

WITNESS TELLS OF MANY FIRES SET OFF BY R. A. F.

BY JAMES MacDONALD.
[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

AN R. A. F. BOMBER STATION, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 17.—Royal air force bombers transformed a large area of Berlin into a particularly hot corner of hell on earth last night.

I know because, as a passenger aboard one of the planes comprising the large force that battered the German capital, I saw a great number of 4,000 pound high explosive bombs and thousands of incendiaries blasting buildings right and left, starting widespread fires which were reminiscent of some of the big German raids we have gone thru in London.

Royal air force bombers had given Berlin a respite since Nov. 7, 1941. Last night they started to make up for lost time. If Berlin has had any worse raids than the one I witnessed I am glad I was not a resident of Germany's capital city.

Sees Fires for Miles.

Lancasters—Britain's biggest bombers—Stirlings and Halifaxes were used in the raid. The various targets were picked out for the specified purpose of crippling Berlin's war effort.

Destruction must have been on a gigantic scale because when the Lancaster in which I was a "strap-hanger" was running the gauntlet of enemy anti-aircraft fire some 60 or 70 miles away on the homeward bound stretch of a 1,200 mile flight, I could see fires raging behind us and their lurid glow reflected in the sky.

Last night's trip was the culmination of a long struggle by newspaper men to persuade ministry of air officials to permit them to go on a bombing raid. Finally some weeks ago permission came thru. Lots were drawn to see which organization should win the first chance, which would have second choice, and so on. First place was drawn by my paper.

Long Wait at Stations.

Six reporters representing American, British and dominions press, and two radio broadcasters—one American, one British—finally were lined up for the trip. We left London for various bomber stations some 10 days ago, and waited until yesterday's takeoff. The plane to which I was assigned as a passenger was a Lancaster.

When we reached Berlin the waves of raiders that had taken off before us back in Britain had found the target and dropped their loads.

Below were several straight strings of lights glowing like street lamps. These strings, which seemed to criss-cross each other at right angles, were caused by incendiaries that had just burst. Here and there also were angry red patches of flame where fires were going full blast.

A Big Fellow Bursts.

Suddenly there was a blinding flash, a great cone of light with its point on the ground and its ever widening base reaching skyward. Some plane had released its 4,000 pound bomb. Then numerous small fires became merged into one great seething cauldron in which the skeletons of some buildings were clearly distinguishable. The fires were so bright that they partially illuminated the bomb aimer's compartment.

Presently it was our turn. Up to this moment we had been zigzagging, diving, climbing, and twisting our way thru frantic anti-aircraft fire. We leveled off on a straight course and directly across the target area. In the middle of it the big Lancaster leaped upward like a surprised animal—we had released our two ton bomb. We tore on across the conflagration below and none of us saw our bomb burst.

Once again we circled for a position in which to run across the target from another direction and drop our incendiaries.

Start Up an Old Fire.

Having completed our second run, the "skipper" said to the bomb aimer: "There's one fire down there that seems to be dying down. Let's start it up again." Once again we took aim and streaked across the blazing area.

Still more fires were to follow because the raid was only at its halfway mark when we left the scene.

For many miles as we sped away from the Berlin district the skipper kept his plane diving, leaping upward, weaving in and out. These were "evasive tactics," designed to prevent ground spotters from making accurate observations of the plane's course and rendering it almost impossible for ground gunners to take a sure aim.

Looking back from 40 miles out I saw what resembled a blast furnace in the distance. From 60 miles I still could see a red glow.

Loss of Two Trawlers Disclosed by British

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP).—Loss of the naval trawlers Horatio and Jura was announced by the admiralty in a communique tonight.

HITLER CAPITAL HIT WITH 4 TON BLOCK BUSTERS

British Guns Balk 2 Nazi Reprisals.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Jan. 18 (Monday).—(AP).—R. A. F. bombers were over Germany again last night, it was announced this morning. The targets were not immediately identified.

LONDON, Jan. 18 [Monday]—(AP).—The German air force struck twice at London last night and early today, sending over small formations of planes which dropped a few bombs in the outskirts in the first attack. The second alarm sounded here shortly before 5 a. m. [11 p. m. Sunday Chicago war time] and it lasted about an hour. London's anti-aircraft guns pounded furiously at the planes. There were no immediate reports of bombs dropped in this second excursion.

Hundreds of Britain's heaviest bombers blasted and fired Berlin Saturday night with four ton block buster bombs and tens of thousands of incendiaries in an attack rated as the most destructive of the war for the Nazi capital.

Anti-Aircraft Fire Weak.

In the raids, the first of any consequence for either capital in more than a year, the R. A. F. bested the German airmen, and the anti-aircraft defenses of the respective capitals performed in marked contrast.

In Berlin the anti-aircraft fire was the weakest seen by many of the experienced British flyers, and only one of an estimated 300 bombers was lost. In London, however, of the hundreds of German bombers sent to the attack only a few even got a glimpse of the city, and those which did ran into the heaviest anti-aircraft fire ever put up here. Four Nazi raiders were shot down.

In Berlin fires were set which were visible 100 miles away, and large areas were laid waste by the 4,000 and 8,000 pound bombs; in London only a few heavy explosive bombs were dropped, and they fell into the suburbs.

A number of Nazi incendiary bombs caused two fires in one area near the Thames river, and a large department store and bank caught fire in another area. These blazes soon were brought under control.

Another Berlin Raid Reported.

British night fighters were in the air soon after the German raiders were reported crossing the coast toward London.

Three persons were reported killed and several injured in the Nazis' first retaliatory raid on London, but these deaths were attributed not to the German attack, but to British anti-aircraft shrapnel.

On Sunday night British bombers apparently returned to Germany and other continental targets, as radio stations went silent over wide areas, and one roundabout report, brought here from Stockholm by Reuters [British] news agency and quoting the newspaper Svenska Dagbladet, said Berlin was struck again.

Military observers stressed the lack of heavy anti-aircraft fire and fighter opposition over Berlin and suggested there were two possible reasons for this: Either that this once strongly protected area was being weakened to strengthen other places, possibly Italy, or simply that the Germans were caught napping.

Berlin announced that 31 persons were known to have been killed and approximately 150 injured, but said the toll might increase "as salvage work has not been completed yet." A Swiss newspaper dispatch was quoted by Reuters as saying that rescue work still was proceeding last night amid wrecked buildings, and the casualty list was mounting.

First Use of New Defenses.

London's improved defenses which included anti-raid devices were in use for the first time.

When the firing began crowds in the west end scattered quickly and swarmed into hotels and underground shelters which soon were packed.

The raid on Berlin was the 54th British assault of the war on the core of Nazidom and the first by the R. A. F. since the night of Nov. 7, 1941.

A German radio broadcast said the British bombs fell mainly in densely populated areas of the capital. The Germans said two of the raiders had been shot down.

ROMMEL DRIVEN BACK 40 MILES BY LIBYAN PUSH

British 8th Army on Move Toward Tripoli.

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 17 (AP).—Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's British 8th army again is on the move and in two days has cleared the hurdle of Wadi Zem-Zem and advanced about 40 miles all along the line toward Tripoli.

The offensive was resumed by moonlight Friday morning, Gen. Montgomery announced in a communique today, and by yesterday British tanks and troops, protected overhead by dense formations of R. A. F. and American planes, had cleared the Germans and Italians out of their Buerat el Hsun positions and established contact with their retreating rear guards in the Sedala and Bir Tala area.

Front reports received here tonight said British tank columns still were chasing the German armored forces to the west while British infantry advanced behind them steadily without encountering any serious resistance.

Narrow Gap to 400 Miles.

After more than two weeks of preparation, the 8th army thus slashed the distance to Tripoli to about 130 miles and further closed the gap between itself and the British and Americans in Tunisia to about 400 miles.

Sedala is about 32 miles north of the broad, stony valley known as Wadi Zem-Zem which German Marshal Erwin Rommel had held and about 65 miles west of the coastal anchor of Buerat el Hsun.

Bir Tala is 12 miles west and slightly north of Sedala. The latter place is about 65 miles south and slightly west of Misurata and 130 airline miles southeast of Tripoli.

The Germans withdrew from some positions in the Wadi Zem-Zem but put up a sharp fight at others and there were many artillery duels and tank battles.

Prisoners and Tanks Taken.

Prisoners and tanks were captured in unspecified numbers as the British drove forward in two parallel thrusts along the coast thru Buerat el Hsun from El Gheddahia and farther inland across the El Gheddahia-Bu Ngent track.

The communique, which said that only enemy rear guards retreating to the northwest were being engaged, suggested that Rommel was headed direct for Tripoli and had no idea of putting up a fight farther to the north around Misurata.

The air forces attacked Tripoli Friday night and Saturday, setting fires, and raided air fields on the Italian islands of Sicily and Lampedusa.

[Coincident with Gen. Montgomery's resumed offensive, Marshal Rommel was menaced increasingly from the southern quarter, where the Fighting French announced that their forces from across the Sahara had reached the Tripolitanian battleground.]

Raid Communication Lines.

ALLIED HDQ., NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 17 (AP).—Allied bombers and fighters continued their heavy attacks on communication lines linking the axis divisions in eastern Tunisia with the remnants of the African corps of Marshal Rommel in Libya, a communique said today.

Vehicles on the roads leading to Sfax were bombed and machine gunned Friday night by the new British Bixley bombers. Hurricanes struck yesterday at railway sidings midway between Mejez-el-Bab and Tebourba on the fringe of the German defense line before Tunis and Bizerte.

The only ground activity in Tunisia was by the French of Gen. Henri Giraud, who reported the capture of "several important points" in the Gebel Bou Dabous region 20 miles northwest of the Moslem religious center of Kairouan.

SLIP INTO ALGIERS HARBOR.

The Italian high command, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, said "assault units of the Italian navy" slipped into Algiers harbor the night of Jan. 11 and torpedoed three large ships and a cruiser. Two of the ships were sunk and the third went aground, while the cruiser was damaged, the communique said.

The Italians said also that a surprise attack on a small fort in Tunisia was successful.

ACTS ON A HUNCH AND IT'S SAD DAY FOR NAZI FLYERS

Yank Fighters in Air Before Foe Strikes.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT AN ADVANCED AMERICAN AIRFIELD IN CENTRAL TUNISIA, Jan. 14 [Delayed]—[Censored].—Maj. Philip Cochran of Erie, Pa., the one man air force, gave a group of German bombers their greatest surprise last night when he led six other Warhawks [P-40s] aloft.

When the spectacular dusk dogfight was over and the last brilliant tracer bullets from the ground ack ack had died away, the score was two JU-88s down in flames, another probable, and a fourth claimed damaged by ack ack.

This was believed to account for the entire enemy bomber formation. Just before the fighters struck the bombers spattered their loads.

In the Air in Time.

It was Cochran's own idea. His hunch was that the bombers would strike at dusk. Five minutes before 6, with the sun down behind the mountains, Cochran walked to his plane, followed by six other pilots.

They were in the air when, 15 minutes later, the bombers came in low over the field.

I was turning in at the edge of the field in my car when the first bombs burst like brilliant fireworks in the dark. My companions and I scrambled out, seeking cover in a ditch to escape the shrapnel.

A moment later we saw tracer bullets from ack ack splitting the sky, then the silhouettes of fighter planes closing in.

Chased for Many Miles.

Cochran chased his quarry many miles, shooting nine bursts before the German gunners quit and the plane crashed flaming.

Lt. John Bent, Pittsford, N. Y., downed another nearer the field, while Lt. Thomas A. Thomas Jr., Ada, Okla., blasted a third until his ammunition was exhausted and he last saw it limping home on one engine.

Thomas became lost in the dark but was brought back safely by the ground radio and by Cochran, who found him and led him in.

This made six German bombers for Cochran's outfit in one week.

[Cochran's associates have nicknamed him "Flip Corkin" after the character in Milton Caniff's "Terry and the Pirates." Cochran and Caniff were friends in their college days at Ohio State university.]

RUSSIAN RELIEF DISCUSSED BY 2 JEWISH BODIES

Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Superior court and Max Bressler were principal speakers last night before the Landsmanshaft division of the United Jewish campaign for Russian relief at the Hamilton hotel.

The subject of Nazi persecution of Jewish peoples in Nazi dominated countries was foremost in a two day session of the Midwest conference of the American Jewish congress at the Hotel Sherman. The congress adjourned yesterday afternoon following the adoption of resolutions bearing on this problem.

Rabbi Maurice L. Perlzweig of London, who has been in close touch with united nations authorities on this question, and Rabbi Morton M. Berman were principal speakers at the closing public session of the conference.

MORE WAR NEWS FROM PRESIDENT URGED BY WHITE

William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kas., Gazette, and Maynard C. Krueger, assistant professor in the University of Chicago's department of economics, yesterday questioned whether the administration is releasing sufficient information on the war. They spoke on the university's Round Table broadcast on station WMAQ.

W. A. White.

"I am not ready to squawk—not yet!" said White. "I understand the office of war information is the pianist who plays the score as sent down by the administration. We must soon be given the general direction in which we are going. That is up to the President. I think he does not take the people sufficiently into his confidence. There is a tremendous need to bring the people into an understanding of the war. If the people don't understand why they are making tanks and guns and planes, we are liable to lose this war even if we win a victory. I think the President should come out on the front porch of the nation and speak to the people."

"Literally millions of people do not understand the basic arithmetic of inflation and taxes," said Krueger, "and many are in Washington. I don't like that phrase 'trust the government'; it sounds too totalitarian." Leo Rosten, deputy director of OWI, said, "the problem of military secrets is always with us."

INTERNATIONAL SET ACTIVE FOE OF THE TRIBUNE

Thunders at Paper for Its Editorial Policy.

(This is another in a series of articles telling of the attitude toward and treatment of the press of the nation by the New Deal. Previous articles have told of the New Deal's attitude toward The Chicago Tribune and other newspapers.)

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

Communists, demagogs, and Washington politicians are not the only elements which entered into a conspiracy to "get THE TRIBUNE" and wreck its pro-American policy.

They were aided and abetted at every turn by the international set—cookie-pushing social snobs, Anglophiles, Russophiles, and Sinophiles. For the most part the international set flourishes along Park avenue and on Long Island far from the heart of the nation in the middle west.

From time to time the internationalists have thundered at THE TRIBUNE because its editorial policy ran counter to the Roosevelt foreign policy and their own peculiar preferences for foreign isms, snobbery, and culture.

Parallels Other Attacks.

The campaign of the international set against THE TRIBUNE has been running parallel with the administration's attacks on this newspaper in reprisal for its demands, that Washington carry on an all-out program to win the war and clean out political incompetents in public office.

These attacks were stepped up especially before the recent election, when agents from the federal bureau of investigation, secret service operatives and men from the naval intelligence swarmed into Tribune Tower for investigations on one pretext or another. None of the raids panned out.

The internationalists are of a breed marked by an air of colonialism, a queer subservience to British titles. The dowagers of the lot dote on English earls, dukes, baronets, knights and above all anybody connected with royalty. They vie with each other in grabbing off visiting lords and ladies as their dinner and house guests.

When the English bon ton are finally snagged, the dowagers seat them at the dinner table according to their exalted heraldic rank, always above all Americans. Americans have even been seen bowing, scraping and curtsying to these titled visitors, at the same time muttering "Your Excellency" or something of the sort.

Along with their periodic thundering at THE TRIBUNE, the internationalists spend their time and efforts in aiding everybody abroad and forgetting that in their home country there are widows, orphans, unwed mothers, injured service men and other people in need.

Raise Vast Sums of Money.

Organizations like the British War Relief society, Bundles for Britain and the British-American Ambulance corps are still doing business at the old stand. They are still raising vast sums of money to send cash and vital materials to England, lend-lease shelling out to the contrary, notwithstanding. The Russian and Chinese war relief agencies do a sizable business, but nowhere near that of the pro-British groups.

High priest of the internationalist cult is Wendell L. Willkie, ex-Republican nominee for President and former barefoot boy from Indiana. Willkie's views may be described as pro-British, pro-Russian and pro-Chinese. He serves as a binder for the entire internationalist set.

Keep Willkie's Name Alive.

Willkie, of whom it has been said he is the only man who ever let defeat go to his head, was traveling around the world as a Roosevelt emissary during the last election campaign and he came back with big ideas of the new American imperialism.

There is little doubt that Willkie would soon be the forgotten man but for the strenuous efforts of his internationalist cronies in the publishing world to keep him alive. His great and good friend and apologist in this field is Henry Luce, czar of the Time-Life-Fortune magazine empire.

Luce himself was born in China—altho he is not Chinese—and is more pro-Chinese than pro any of the other foreign countries. Like Willkie, Luce is bent on making the United States the leading imperial nation of the world after the war. Luce, who has been of combat age, would like to send every one to fight for China except Luce.

Champion of Union Now.

On the other hand, Luce's wife takes care of the pro-British side of the family. Clare Boothe Luce, caustic playwright and beauteous to look at, is a champion of Union Now. Union Now is a grandiose scheme for merging the United States into the British empire.

Mrs. Luce was elected to congress last fall so she will have a new sounding board for her ideas.

Another publication which contributed mightily to the Willkie buildup and saves him from oblivion is the New York Herald Tribune, once an influential Republican newspaper and now the leading Anglophile organ of the country.

The beginnings of this overwhelming affection for all things British go back to the days when Whitelaw Reid was American ambassador to the court of St. James's from 1905 to 1912. Reid was an Ohio newspaper man who succeeded the great Horace Greeley as editor and principal owner of the New York Tribune, which his wife owned. His son, Ogden Reid, is the publisher of the paper today.

Favorite of Princess Pat.

During those days in England Ogden's sister, Jean, was a great favorite of Princess Pat, daughter of the duke and duchess of Connaught, and also of Princess Louise, duchess of Argyll. Jean Reid married John Hubert Ward, equerry-in-ordinary to the king and brother of the earl of Dudley, governor general of Australia, and became Lady Ward 25 years ago.

Meanwhile Ambassador Reid's son, Ogden, was also acquiring a bride. She was the former Helen Rogers, the social secretary for Ogden's mother. The secretary got plenty of British social indoctrination in her job.

Another of the leading Anglophiles in the United States is Thomas Lamont, senior partner of the financial house of J. P. Morgan, which served as fiscal agent for the British government during the last war. Lamont pulled the strings for Willkie from behind the scenes at the 1940 Republican convention in Philadelphia.

Son on Pro-Russian Side.

Lamont's son, Corliss, takes care of the pro-Russian side of the family. For years he has headed the Friends of the Soviet Union and traveled around with communist "front" window dressing organizations.

Dorothy Thompson, columnist and former wife of Sinclair Lewis, the novelist, also belongs in the international set alongside the pro-Britishers. She and Clare Boothe Luce sat on the stage with Lord Marley, a deputy speaker in the house of lords, at one of the first Union Now rallies in New York City and she has actively promoted the scheme.

Miss Thompson was in the vanguard of those who were shouting for American entry in the war long before the attack on Pearl Harbor. She has one son by her marriage to Lewis, but he is too young for military service.

These are the leaders. Scores more of the socially impeccable of New York follow them with work for the various "aid" groups.

Finances 62 Hospitals.

Bundles for Britain is financing 62 nonendowed (without government aid) hospitals in England, altho numerous private hospitals in the United States are folding up for lack of doctors, nurses and funds. The Bundlers have sent $100,000 in cash to England and 3,000 cases of clothing since the United States was plunged into the war.

Head of the Bundlers is Mrs. Robert Worth Bingham, widow of the one time ambassador to the court of St. James's.

British War Relief society is the biggest of the agencies. It is a big business. During the fiscal year just preceding American entry into the war, B. W. R. S. took in $12,544,556 in cash. The society turned over to the United Kingdom in cash and goods a total amount of $10,028,097 during the same year.

Reports Higher Contributions.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank and bellwether of New York society, noted in his last annual report that contributions in December of 1941 after this country went to war were higher than for November or October. He claimed this as proof of public support for the general relief work of B. W. R. S.

The society's activities in the British Isles include: Operation of 300 ambulances, 1,000 mobile kitchens, and 144 motor trucks for food convoys; maintenance of nearly 400 homes, hospitals and hostels for bomb shocked, convalescent, and evacuated children, also hotels for the aged and infirm; shipping to England of vast quantities of clothes, X-ray equipment, stoves, air raid shelters, and vegetable seeds.

URUGUAY TO ASK $50,000,000 U. S. 'JOBLESS' LOAN

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 17 (AP).—Alberto Guani, Uruguayan foreign minister and vice president-elect, said tonight that he hoped during his coming trip to the United States to obtain a loan of 100,000,000 Uruguayan pesos [roughly $50,000,000] for public works to absorb some 100,000 men threatened with unemployment in Uruguay because of the war. He plans to leave tomorrow by plane on his official visit to the United States.

AIR FORTS SMASH 5 JAP MERCHANT SHIPS AT RABAUL

Troops Cut Sanananda Road; Kill 122 of Foe.

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 18 (AP).—Five Japanese merchant ships in the harbor at Rabaul, New Britain, were damaged or sunk in a three wave three hour raid by Flying Fortresses Saturday night. Results of the raid were reported today in a communique which said the total tonnage of the ships hit amounted to 25,000 tons.

The bombers fought thru strong anti-aircraft and searchlight defenses, hitting the airdromes as well as the harbor installations. All came back.

The Japanese raided Milne bay with 24 medium bombers and 20 Zeros, causing some damage to the airdrome area.

Cut Sanananda Road.

That was Milne bay's first raid in several weeks and the heaviest the Japanese have made anywhere on the northern Papuan coast in months. Our fighters went up, but the Japanese avoided combat and escaped.

Allied bombers again were active over the New Guinea coastal war area but nowhere in strength approaching that the Japanese sent against Milne bay.

Allied ground forces, with air support, made further progress at Sanananda point, cutting the main road behind the Japanese lines and killing at least 122 Japs. The move was made by an encircling force from the west.

Transport Attacked.

Far to the north, in the vicinity of the Admiralty Islands, allied heavy bombers attacked a Japanese transport. Results were not observed.

An attack by medium bombers on the Japanese supply dump along the coast of Lae caused large explosions and numerous fires. Wharf areas were pounded by heavy bombers both at Madang and Finschhafen. A similar unit bombed the airdrome at Malalang in New Guinea and at Gasmata, New Britain.

U. S. OPENS QUIZ ON SINKING OF BIG KAISER TANKER

Portland, Ore., Jan. 17 [Special].—The maritime commission, the federal bureau of investigation, and insurance underwriters today sought an explanation for the cracking and sinking of the 16,500 ton tanker, Schenectady, as it was tied up at the outfitting dock of the Henry J. Kaiser shipyard at Swan Island here last night.

Under orders from Washington, local attaches of the maritime commission refused to discuss possible reasons for the mishap.

The tanker split down the sides at about midship and the bow and stern today were resting on the Willamette river bed. According to one source there was no weld split but rather a clean break in the steel. It was established that there had been no explosion.

It was stated officially that other tankers of this type were "in service and performing beautifully."

THIEVES GET $40 IN TRUCK CAR.

R. R. Gorbett of Cleveland, O., a truck driver, told police yesterday thieves stole a portfolio containing $45 from the cab of his truck, parked in front of 1101 South Wabash avenue.

WITNESS SAYS R. A. F. REMAINED OVER NAZI CAPITAL HALF AN HOUR

R. A. F. bombers remained over Berlin more than a half hour in Saturday night's raid on the German capital and encountered no night fighters, but plenty of anti-aircraft fire, Richard Dimbleby, British Broadcasting corporation correspondent, reported from London last night in an eyewitness broadcast carried by the Mutual network and station W-G-N.

"It was quite a big show," said Dimbleby, "and quite a long one, too." As the bomber in which he was riding left England, Lancaster, Halifax and Stirling bombers could be seen wherever he looked, the correspondent reported, without indicating the exact number of planes used in the raid.

Berlin was marked by a complete ring of searchlights, he said. "It seemed to me that when most of our bombers were over the city, many of the lights were doused," he related. "Then one of the Lancasters dropped an incendiary. A dazzling silver pattern spread out. Score after score of fire bombs went down. It was fascinating. We flew over the city three times, for more than a half hour. Then we sighted our objective and dropped our biggest bomb of the evening—a 2½ tonner. It seemed we were there an age."

MIRACLE OF SEA: LIFE SAVING RAIN AIDS RICK'S PARTY

When Men Pray, Passing Clouds Are Stayed.

said the Lord's Prayer. Then Lt. De Angelis recited as much as he could remember of the moving Catholic burial service. Both he and Alex were of that faith. I remember a line here and there:

"O God, great and omnipotent Judge of the living and dead! Before Whom we all are to appear after this short life, let our hearts be moved at this sight of death, and while we consign the body to the sea, let us be mindful of our own frailty and mortality. . . . Eternal rest grant to him, O Lord, and may eternal light shine upon him."

Body Consigned to Sea.

Johnny Bartek fastened the zippers of Alex's flying suit. We all said the Lord's Prayer again and put him into the water. I could see him for a long time. Nothing bothered him.

We held another prayer service shortly afterward, then we all were very quiet for a long time. Alex had been a good boy. It was maddening that we hadn't been able to do more for him.

The burial service took our minds off ourselves for a time, but the blazing heat brought back our thirst and intensified the agonies of the seven suffering from salt water ulcers. I think I was more depressed than at any other time. It was hard to keep from seeing in Alex's fate the precursor of my own. But we were on the brink of the first of two miracles that were to cleanse me of agnosticism forever and complete my redemption.

Hope Rises, Then Fades.

The thing that happened was miraculous then and grows in proportion as I think of it now. This, our 13th day, had started out as a scorcher. Just after 10 a. m., a squall blotted out the sun and our hopes rose. A bluish curtain of rain moved toward us across the sea.

We prayed aloud for it to reach us. But it passed us by, about a quarter of a mile off. Somehow, my faith didn't die. I prayed with the rest—wholeheartedly, I believe, for the first time.

Like many of the others, I didn't know how to address God properly, so I talked to Him as I would have to a parent or a friend.

"God," I said, "You know what that water means to us. The wind has blown it away. It is in Your power, God, to send back that rain. It's nothing to You, but it means life to us."

Some of the others had given up. Some one said in disgust that the bloody wind would blow in the same direction for another 40 years.

"God, the wind is Yours," I continued. "You own it. Order it to blow back that rain to us who need it."

There are some things that can't be explained by natural law. The wind did not change, but the receding curtain of rain stopped where it was. Then, ever so slowly, it began moving back toward us—against the wind!

Maybe a meteorologist can explain that to your satisfaction. One tried it with me; something about cross currents buffeting the squall back. I tell you there was no buffeting. It moved back with a majestic deliberation. It was as if a great and omnipotent hand moved it back across the waves. And for my money, that's exactly what happened.

We caught a great store of water. Again the salt water was sluiced from our stinging bodies. Many of the boys had shed skin three or four times by now, and there were raw places where they had chafed against the sides of the rafts. In addition, most of them were afflicted with salt water ulcers, which covered their abdomens, hips, legs, and feet. Some had to crouch in a kneeling position for momentary relief.

That rain was a Godsend—I use a capital G intentionally. It helped us over four days of the doldrums, which were just ahead and were to be the most terrible part of our ordeal.

4 CHICAGO MARINES COMMENDED BY NAVY FOR BATTLE COURAGE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—Four Chicagoans were among 37 enlisted men of the marines serving aboard an aircraft carrier who received letters of commendation for outstanding bravery during a recent engagement, the navy department announced today.

Those commended included: Corp. Russell Marvin Reubelt, son of Mrs. Lillian E. Reubelt, 1400 Lake Shore drive, Chicago; Corp. Steve C. Spusta, son of Steve J. Spusta, 2041 West 52d street, Chicago; Pvt. 1st Class Dennis R. Cermak, son of Mrs. Agnes Cermak, 2217 South Millard avenue, Chicago; Pvt. 1st Class John J. Maxian, son of Mrs. Frances Maxian, 2329 South Sacramento avenue, Chicago; Corp. Walter G. Dusenberry, Peoria, Ill.; Corp. Jack E. Briggs, Royal Oak, Mich., and 1st Sergt Joseph R. Schinka, St. Paul, Minn.

The engagement for which they were commended took place off the Solomon Islands last Aug. 24, the navy said.

JUDGE GRIFFIN TOLD JAPS HOLD SON AS CAPTIVE

Municipal Judge John J. Griffin yesterday received word from the war department that his son, Sergt. James W. Griffin, 27 years old, a member of the Maywood tank battalion on Bataan, is being held as a Japanese prisoner of war in the Philippine Islands. Sergt. Griffin was reported missing in action last May and presumably was captured in the fall of the Philippines.

Sergt. Griffin was a policeman assigned to the Summerdale station when he enlisted in the army in April, 1941. He is a native of Chicago and was graduated from Campion college, Prairie du Chien, Wis. He made his home with Judge and Mrs. Griffin at 6733 Bosworth avenue.

The sergeant has three brothers, Lt. Robert E. of Scott field, Indiana; Edward G., a naval reserve lieutenant, and John A., and a sister, Mrs. Alice Johnson.

JAPS USE MUNDA BASE FOR DRIVE ON GUADALCANAL

Bomb Henderson Field 3 Times in 2 Days.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—The Japanese appeared today to have opened a new round in their long and costly fight to retake Guadalcanal Island with an aerial offensive from their new base at Munda.

A duel between American air forces on Guadalcanal and the enemy's forces at Munda, in the central Solomons only 180 miles to the northwest, is indicated.

A navy communique reported today that for the third time in two days enemy aircraft had bombed American positions on Guadalcanal Friday evening, causing "minor material damage" and some casualties. The two previous raids, which were the enemy's first multi-plane attacks on the island since mid-November, were made Thursday.

Munda Field Bombed.

The latest American blow at Munda, on New Georgia Island, was delivered Saturday by Marauder medium bombers escorted by Airacobra and Warhawk fighters. "A number of hits were scored in the target area," the communique said. Munda has been under aerial bombardment since November, yet the Japs appear to have used it as a base of operations.

Evidence that the enemy has gone into the initial maneuvers of a new effort to drive American forces from Guadalcanal was found by naval authorities in official reports leading up to today's communique.

On Thursday the navy reported that a force of enemy destroyers had been intercepted by motor torpedo boats in Guadalcanal waters earlier in the week. Their obvious purpose was to reënforce and supply the beleaguered Japanese troops on the northern hump of the island.

Destroyers Damaged.

In yesterday's communique the navy disclosed that American planes had attacked one group of five and another of nine destroyers which apparently were trying to reach Guadalcanal. Damage was inflicted on both groups.

On the island land fighting continued favorably for American forces. Today as yesterday the navy announced that our troops were advancing slowly against strong Japanese resistance.

YANKS BATTLE 38 JAP PLANES OVER CHINA; DESTROY 7

Outnumbered, but Lose Only One Craft.

WITH THE U. S. ARMY AIR FORCES IN CHINA, Jan. 16 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Japanese lost seven planes, possibly 12, today when they raided an American airdrome in western Yunnan province and three nearby Chinese villages from their base in Burma.

American medium bombers, in quick retaliation, dropped tons of bombs on the Japanese base at Lashio, terminus of the Burma road, keeping up the strong air offensive against key enemy points in Burma. One United States fighter pilot was missing after an air battle in which the Americans, outnumbered three to one, engaged 18 enemy bombers and 20 fighters.

Shoots Down His Sixth.

Col. Herbert Morgan of Freedom, Pa., said the damage to the airdrome was minor and the only casualties were two mechanics slightly wounded. The fighters closed in on the Japanese northwest of the field and two Zeros were shot down quickly. American pilots gave chase down the valley, picking off Zero after Zero and probably downing one bomber. The running battle lasted about 20 minutes.

Capt. John Lombard of Ionia, Mich., brought his confirmed total to six by shooting down one Zero. Lt. Aaron Liepe of Dubuque, Ia., got one Zero.

Ships and Bases Bombed.

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 17 (AP).—American and British air squadrons, ranging from near the Tibet border to the Andaman sea, blasted Japanese bases and ships Friday and Saturday and returned without loss of a single plane, allied communiques said today.

Japanese raiders striking at an allied air field near Chittagong on the northern Bay of Bengal were reported driven off with the loss of one plane and damage to several others, while one of the defenders was shot down.

Smashing at an escorted convoy far south of Rangoon Friday, heavy bombers of the 10th United States air force left a 7,000 ton Japanese cargo vessel sinking and apparently damaged a 5,000 ton ship by near misses, a United States bulletin said.

Battleship Skipper Wins Cross; Bagged 32 Planes

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—The navy cross has been awarded Capt. Thomas L. Gatch, whose battleship shot down 32 Japanese planes while it was protecting an aircraft carrier in the battle of the Santa Cruz Islands in the southwest Pacific. Gatch, 52, lives in Annapolis, Md. The cross was awarded him by Adm. William F. Halsey Jr., commander of the South Pacific area.

SOVIET GENERAL CONFIDENT NAZIS WILL BE ROUTED

Tells How Reds Smashed Toward Rostov.

BY EDDY GILMORE.

WITH THE RED ARMY SOUTHEAST OF ROSTOV, Jan. 17 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovski, commander of the soviet troops on this front, is supremely confident of the ability of his armies to carry on successfully with the great winter offensive aimed at Nazi held Rostov.

The stocky Ukrainian, slumped over a table at headquarters in a tiny Cossack schoolhouse beside the Volga, said today:

"My army is fighting with complete confidence. The Germans are rushing up new divisions and new tanks, but they, too, will be routed. All this will have great influence on the operations in the Caucasus."

He gave much of the credit for the success of the winter offensive in this sector to Col. Gen. Yeremenko, last reported as in command of soviet defenses at Stalingrad.

Always Guesses Enemy's Moves.

Yeremenko, despite the fact that he is in the hospital, "is still on active operations," Malinovski said.

"He has good brains," the general said. "He is always able to guess the enemy's moves and direct us along the right lines."

Offering a box of cigars, which he said were "not so good because they're German," he lit up and talked of the offensive.

"We have prepared for this offensive abundantly," he said.

But he disclosed that the Germans had nearly beaten the Russians to the punch at the outset, when they started an offensive of their own on Dec. 12 which carried them across the Aksay river toward beleaguered Stalingrad. But it was smashed.

"Our basic method," he said, "has been encircling movements" which the Germans have not been able to solve.

Describes Russian Drive.

He described how the right wing of his army had moved along the west bank of the Don river while the left drove across the Askay toward Kotelnikovo, 90 miles to the southwest of Stalingrad.

"From the first day," he said, "it was successful."

A second blow toward Kotelnikovo broke the German resistance in that sector and they hastily retreated 35 miles farther to the southwest to Zimovniki.

"Complications arose in the direction of Tormosin, northwest of Kotelnikovo," Malinovski said. "Here the Germans had a strong second line. We finally routed them and then went on westward and southwestward.

"Naturally, we have suffered losses, but they are not as high as the Germans' and not as high as our high command estimated."

SALESMAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

Tostem Kjemhus, 59 years old, 2650 North Normandy avenue, a salesman, was found shot to death yesterday in the basement of his home. His wife, Martha, told police she found a .32 caliber revolver in his hand.

Russian Gains

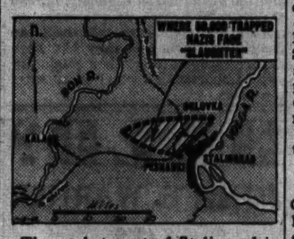
Captions tell development reported yesterday on the Russian war front.



The pocket west of Stalingrad in which the remnants of 22 axis divisions of troops are being hammered by encircling Russians.

MUST AID WORLD AFTER WAR, TOO, SAYS MRS. F. D. R.

New York, Jan. 17 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said today that America must help the rest of the world after the war "even if it means that we will not go back to easy, comfortable lives."

"We must realize that the important things in life are human beings and not material things," she told 1,300 members of the Carroll club, Catholic business women's organization, at its annual communion breakfast.

The British understand Russia's and China's sufferings, she said, and Americans must learn to understand and appreciate it.

Even in Buckingham palace, she said in reviewing her recent trip to England, "the meals, heat, and the lighting are no better than anywhere else, and I can tell you it is just as cold as it can be in Buckingham palace."

HORNET'S PILOTS WIN RECORD FOR BATTLE SAFETY

Only Eight Lost in Ten Weeks of Fighting.

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 12 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Hornet's pilots had probably the best safety record of any carrier in the world for the 10 weeks preceding that ship's sinking off Santa Cruz Island on Oct. 26.

In those 10 weeks Hornet flyers searched the Pacific almost daily for enemy ships, submarines, and planes. They raided Buin air base on Bougainville Island and Tonolei harbor on the same island. They blasted enemy ships at Faisi on Shortland Island. They raided Rekata bay on Santa Ysabel and they blasted enemy ships and installations at Cape Esperance and Kokumbuno on Guadalcanal. They shot down eight four motored Kawanishi scout bombers.

There were extremely few casualties in those 10 weeks.

Only Eight Men Lost.

Even in that torrid battle of Santa Cruz the Hornet flyers managed somehow to set a great safety record. Only eight men were lost—four fighter pilots, one bomber pilot and his radio man-gunner, and one torpedo pilot and his radio man-gunner.

That despite the fact they flew thru Zero and A-A fire to severely damage nearly a dozen Jap ships. And 115 Jap planes were shot down that day.

The Hornet's aviation personnel, more than 100 pilots and 50 radio men-gunners, was a veteran outfit. "The best in the world," Rear Adm. Charles P. Mason of Pensacola, Fla., and other officers called them. Many had been decorated with distinguished flying crosses.

Bag 15 Jap Bombers.

Lt. Comm. Henry Gabriel Sanchez, 34, of Staten Island, N. Y., was fighter squadron leader. His boys sent at least 15 Jap bomber and torpedo planes into the ocean on Oct. 26 before they could reach the Hornet. More of his boys, led by Sanchez himself, escorted Hornet bombers and torpedo planes to the enemy carrier force, shooting down Zero fighters sent out to stop them.

After the Japs knocked out the Hornet these fighter pilots landed on another carrier, refueled and rearmed, and went back into action.

Lt. Comm. William J. Widhelm, 34, of Humphrey, Neb., was bomber squadron leader. He led his bombers everywhere—thru rain and fog and clouds and A-A fire—and led them back every time but once. That once, on Oct. 26, he was shot down for the first time in 3,400 hours of flying.

Gus and his radio man-gunner, George D. Stokeley, drifted 56 hours in a rubber lifeboat until rescued by a PBY—"just when we were all set to pick out a nice South Seas island and enjoy life."

The torpedo squadron leader, T. E. B. Parker of Tulsa, Okla., is also 34. On Oct. 25 Parker called his torpedo pilots together for a pep talk and plan-of-attack speech. He concluded:

"No matter what we run into—no matter whether we lose our fighter escort—no matter how hot the Japs' A-A—we're going in and get that carrier. I'll lead the way."

Bill led and the other torpedo men followed, but rain squalls altered their plans a little. They searched over a wide area but never could find that carrier.

CHILE TO BREAK AXIS TIES JAN. 23, PAPER REPORTS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 17 (AP).—The newspaper La Opinion, which has close ties to former Foreign Minister Juan Rossetti, said today that Chile would break diplomatic relations with the axis powers Jan. 23.

"Diplomatic representatives of Germany, Italy, and Japan already have been informed by the foreign office," the newspaper said. "It is also learned that the passports for the chiefs of those foreign missions and their staffs are ready."

Chile and Argentina are the only American republics which maintain diplomatic relations with the axis powers.

YOU MAY BE COLD IN MARCH, FUEL OIL USERS TOLD

Heating Expert Assails Errors in Ration.

Fuel oil users of Chicago have used 12 per cent more of their rationed supplies of oil than is alloted at this stage of the program which was designed to scientifically distribute the supplies thruout the winter. This was the findings of a leading Chicago consulting engineer who has completed a study of the local situation in conjunction with rationing authorities.

The heating authority, T. L. Condron, consulting engineer for Western Electric company and the Ford Motor company until he retired recently, based his statement on information from the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, on an analysis of the office of price administration fuel oil rationing plan, and on a study of 200 typical Chicago fuel oil users.

Used Coupons in Advance.

"A very large percentage of the people will run out of fuel oil before the winter is over because the "change coupons" good at anytime were used early in the winter, and because of severe weather they had to use period five coupons, intended for use in March, during December and January," Condron said.

He began his study—prompted by volunteer work he was doing for rationing boards—by plotting the OPA oil quota over a winter heating period as represented by a "degree-day" table so that a maximum efficiency could be utilized from any particular oil supply.

Makes Study of 200 Cases.

A study of 200 typical cases on Jan. 4, when only 38 per cent of the allotment should have been used, showed a majority had used 45 to 55 per cent of their total fuel oil supply for the year and that many had used as much as 65 per cent.

Condron made four specific criticisms of the fuel oil rationing program, altho he was careful to explain that he was as interested in a war time economy aimed toward victory as was any one in the country. The criticisms were:

1. Altho time was available, OPA neglected to advance an educational campaign to inform the public of how rationing would work. Consequently, many persons were cut even lower than OPA intended by failing to state their needs in full.

Forms Were Complex.

2. The fuel oil rationing forms were unneccessarily complex. Condron said they were designed to be filled out by a heating engineer, and not by the butcher, baker, and ailing widows.

3. The plan was not fair to the one-story bungalow. The OPA does not include basements in areas to be heated. While this makes a one-fourth unheated area in a three-story home, it means one-half of a bungalow is unheated.

4. The floor space plan did not take into accounting the insulation in a home, nor did it take into account humidity factors.

'POINT' RATIONING RULES EXTENDED TO RESTAURANTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—Restaurants will be rationed on processed fruits and vegetables but customers will not be required to turn in ration coupons at such places, the office of price administration announced today.

Giving further details of the food rationing plan scheduled to start in approximately six weeks, the OPA said this rule will apply to restaurants, cafés, hotels, railroad dining cars, roadside stands, drug stores, and similar commercial eating places. Separate rules will be announced later for boarding houses and institutions.

Restaurants will be given quotas of "points" to spend on processed foods, the same as housewives.

In the case of a restaurant, however, a special formula has been devised to determine the point quota according to the number of customers. Family quotas will be determined by adding the individual rations of each member of the family.

The restaurant formula starts with the number of meals served in December and makes adjustments for establishments with a growing patronage.

There will be no restriction on the contents of restaurant meals, leaving owners to make up their own menus and rules within the limits of their rations.

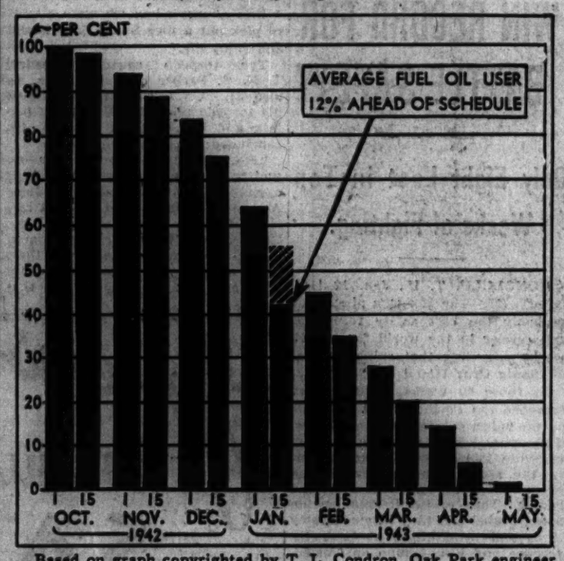
Rate of Normal Fuel Oil Consumption

(Story in adjoining column.)



Based on graph copyrighted by T. L. Condron, Oak Park engineer, vertical bars indicate rate at which any given amount of fuel oil should be burned to last thru the heating season in the Chicago area. The bar at extreme left indicates the full ration, and each succeeding bar the percentage that should be left on the date at the bottom. A survey by Condron indicates that at the middle of this month, average oil users have used 12 per cent more (shaded portion of column) than they should if oil is to last until season is ended.

BANDIT TRIO GETS $100 IN 3 NORTH SIDE HOTEL RAIDS

Police last night were searching for a trio of bandits who early yesterday robbed three north side hotels of a total of $100.

Hotels victimized are the Pine Lodge hotel, 3616 Pine Grove avenue; Sheldrake hotel, 4518 Clarendon avenue, and the Norman hotel, 1325 Wilson avenue.

Two other hotel robberies were reported to police. A Negro youth and his white companion took $49 from the Belden-Stratford hotel, 2300 Lincoln Park West, and a lone Negro bandit robbed the Vincennes hotel, 601 East 36th street, of $175.

FROM SCRAPPING FRONTS U. S. GETS RICH SCRAP PILES

New York, Jan. 17 [Special].—Metal scrap from the battlefields of the South Pacific and North Africa is piling up at American ports as ships bring it in as ballast.

The importation of some of the original metal scrap exported to the Japanese who converted it into armaments and munitions only to have it reduced again to junk by American fighters was disclosed yesterday by 700 members of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, Inc., at their annual convention and war conference.

The scrap includes what is left of Japanese and German tanks, airplanes, guns, motorized equipment, and marine wrecks after they have been stripped of all salvageable parts.

Benjamin Schwartz, chief of the scrap metals section, board of economic warfare, and former director general of the institute, disclosed that "to date scrap is coming from 20 countries and many more will soon be added to the list."

Dr. Walter A. Janssen, head of the metals and minerals section of the division of industrial economy, bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, told the scrap dealers that whereas they had been exporters up to now, they might become importers of metal scrap after the war.

HOW TO GET A LOAN UNTIL PAYDAY

$25 repaid in one week costs only 18¢—Pay only for the time you have the money—No endorsers needed

NEED some extra cash to tide yourself over? Household offers a simple way for folks with jobs to borrow $25, $50, $100 or more. No endorsers ever needed. If you can make small monthly payments, you can get a loan here quickly and privately.

Choose your own plan

You may repay in any way that suits your needs—after a few days or in instalments over a period of months. Charges will be made only for the actual time you have the money. At our rate of 3% per month, a $25 loan no matter whether made for 2, 3 or 4 months costs only 18¢ if repaid in one week. A $50 loan repaid in 6 monthly instalments of $9.24 each costs $5.44—or if repaid in one month costs $1.50. The table below shows many monthly payment plans. All payments include principal and interest. You pay nothing more. We have no minimum charge.

We make loans of three kinds up to $300. 1: Salary loans—for the convenience of folks who have no car or furniture. 2: Auto loans. A loan on your car may suit you best. 3: Furniture loans. Hundreds of families use this plan.

Money for most any purpose

You may get a Household loan to clean up old bills, pay medical or dental expenses, repairs, taxes, insurance—for almost any purpose. If you need money, phone, write or visit us.

FREE 28-page Federal income tax guide tells how to make out your return, how to figure out your tax. Ask for it. No obligation.

TWO DEMOCRATS MAKE AIR DEBUT IN MAYORAL RACE

Boyle and Patts Plan Five Sunday Broadcasts.

The two anti-machine candidates for the Democratic nomination for mayor made their radio bows to the voters yesterday. Each announced he would speak over the same station every Sunday between now and the primary on Feb. 24.

Ald. John S. Boyle [16th], a former member of State's Attorney Courtney's staff, introduced himself first to the radio audience, gave a biographical sketch of himself, reciting that he was 41 years old and selecting the traction issue as the first point of assault. He spoke for 15 minutes.

Thirteen Planks in Platform.

Three hours later another station carried a half hour speech by Billy Patts, candidate of the Polish American Citizens' league, which last fall sponsored the B. B. R. [Bigger and Better Representation] Youth movement under Patts leadership—apparently to work for bigger political recognition of the Polish-Americans. Patts said he was only 36 years old, but he had a most complete platform of 13 planks, in the description of which he berated Mayor Kelly at every opportunity.

Mayor Kelly will go on the air at 9:30 o'clock tonight with an accounting of his stewardship—but it is not expected he will answer Boyle or Patts. His report to the citizens of Chicago is believed to be already in type.

Boyle's story of his life centered largely on his experience in the state's attorney's office where, he said, he prosecuted vote fraud cases, notorious hoodlums under the vagrancy act and the arson trust. He implied that further chapters will devote more time to his experiences and observations in the city council.

Charges Traction Muddle.

Taking up the subject of traction, Boyle said that when Kelly took office 10 years ago he said his first duty was to straighten out the local transportation mess. According to Boyle, Kelly ran on that platform in 1935, again in 1939, and once more is running on it now with the muddle worse than ever.

Patts, hitherto a politically unknown, calls himself the people's candidate, and says his candidacy extends far beyond the partisanship of the Democratic primary. In his radio talk he said his business was property management, real estate, and insurance, altho he is not listed under that heading—or any other—in the telephone book.

Would Destroy Enemy.

"As mayor, I will do my utmost to bring about victory," he said. "I have no sympathy with isolation. I'm for complete destruction of our enemy after the war. We will finish it so the German people will forever know that they lost this war."

The platform he read promised to drive loafers and grafters out of the city hall, to reduce city taxes 25 per cent, to limit taxes on homes to 1 per cent, to investigate what he termed the milk monopoly, to reform the courts and finally to give proportionate representation to all nationalistic groups.

John H. Lyle, one of the Republican candidates for mayor, sent a letter to John T. Dempsey, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, reasserting his refusal to withdraw from the mayoral race, and suggesting that George B. McKibbin, organization candidate, withdraw if a Republican victory is to be realized.

City Club to Hear Albert on Mayoral Race Issue

Arthur F. Albert, Republican, will be the first speaker in a series of forums for mayoralty candidates at the weekly luncheon meetings of the City Club of Chicago today in the Hotel La Salle. Mr. Albert will discuss "The Issues in the Mayoralty Campaign." John S. Boyle, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the office, will speak next Monday.

FLYNN ARRIVES TO QUIT JOB AS DEMOCRAT CHIEF

Envoy Elect Convenes Committee Today.

Asks New Nominee

New York, Jan. 17 [Special].—Sydney S. Baron, executive secretary of the Committee to Reopen the Flynn Case, today announced that he had sent a telegram to President Roosevelt, urging him to withdraw his nomination of Edward J. [Paving Blocks] Flynn for minister plenipotentiary to Australia. Baron's telegram said that scheduled senate hearings on Flynn's fitness "can but further serve to disunite our nation." It added that "the people almost unanimously are opposed to confirmation."

Apparently more concerned with his appearance before the senate foreign relations committee on Wednesday than with problems of party organization and patronage, Edward J. [Paving Blocks] Flynn arrived in Chicago yesterday to preside for the first and last time over the Democratic national committee this morning when he presents his resignation. Altho he succeeded James A. Farley in August, 1940, he has never presided over a committee session.

Frank C. Walker.

Flynn's resignation as national chairman is the result of his appointment by President Roosevelt as minister to Australia and roving ambassador in the Southwest Pacific.

Plans Immediate Departure.

Flynn will leave Chicago by plane immediately after the adjournment of the Democratic group today to return to Washington and prepare himself for his ordeal before senators who are prepared to question him in detail concerning the report he used New York City paving blocks and city labor in paving the courtyard of his country estate.

The retiring national chairman parried all questions concerning party policy and organization problems at a press conference he held yesterday afternoon in the Palmer House. He said such questions would have to be answered by the new chairman who, it is conceded in all quarters, will be Postmaster General Frank C. Walker.

Walker Radio Talk Slated.

Walker arrived yesterday afternoon and went to the Blackstone hotel to await his summons from the committee this morning. So little doubt was there of his election as chairman that radio time was arranged for him to speak over the Blue network at 5 p. m. today. His acceptance speech was brought with him from Washington.

Flynn and other officials of the committee anticipated a short and uneventful session, which is scheduled to start at 10:30 a. m. in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House.

Actual attendance at the meeting was estimated in advance by Edwin W. Pauley, secretary, to be about 36 committeewomen and 32 committeemen but he said almost the entire national committee of 106 members would be represented in person or by proxy.

The only other scheduled business is Pauley's report as acting treasurer. He said he would tell the committee members the treasury is "very low" and that funds have been hard to get for many months.

The Neighbors

"I know, dear, how people admire your frank, outspoken personality. But let's not point out to the neighbors that we're becoming friends with them only because of gas rationing."

Thank You, Chicago Coal Users!

YOU HAVE HELPED US TO DELIVER MORE COAL AND STILL REDUCE TRUCK MILEAGE

★

LAST summer the government urgently requested that we reduce truck mileage 25% per ton of coal delivered. You coal users have co-operated remarkably. You filled your bins before the heating season started, and, in many instances, provided additional storage space. You ordered in load lots and placed orders before coal was actually needed, and you used coal nearest the point of entry so refills could be readily made. "Turnbacks" were avoided because you were there to receive the coal when trucks arrived. Millions of tire miles have been saved, and our trucks —irreplaceable for the duration—have been preserved.

★

Since August, members of the Chicago Coal Merchants Asssociation have furthered this saving by pooling facilities to reduce truck mileage. Stocks of coal from a member's yard near the point of delivery may be used by other members. Your coal deliveries may be made by a nearby member although purchased from a distant member.

★

This is a demonstration of what co-operation can accomplish. More coal has been delivered in spite of the added demand due to the many reversions to coal from oil, and a 40% colder winter. At the same time truck mileage has been reduced. We mean it sincerely when we say, "Thank you, Chicago coal users."

FIGHT ON $25,000 INCOME CEILING GROWS IN HOUSE

Economist Says Limit Will Curb Incentive.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—Members of the house ways and means committee are preparing for a knock down and drag out fight with the administration over President Roosevelt's proposal to limit incomes from investments as well as from salaries to $25,000 a year after deduction of taxes.

Willford I. King.

The President first recommended the $25,000 income ceiling last year when congress was considering the last tax bill. The proposal had originated in the Communist party platform in 1928 and had been revived by Mrs. Roosevelt. The ways and means committee and the senate finance committee rejected the proposition partly because it is patently socialistic and wholly repugnant to the principles of free economy and partly because it would result in a loss of revenue to the government.

F. D. R. Decree Denounced.

Both houses of congress upheld the committee decision and the tax bill was passed without the limitation. As soon as the price stabilization bill was passed, however, the President seized upon implied powers therein to authorize the limitation of salaries by executive decree which he proceeded to issue. The $25,000 ceiling is now in effect on 1943 salaries.

By numerous leaders in congress, Democrats as well as Republicans, the executive order was denounced as a plain usurpation of power by the President. A movement gained headway to nullify the order in the forthcoming tax legislation. In the meantime, the President in his budget message, recommended that the limitation be extended to unearned incomes.

Deplores Pay Ceiling.

One of the strongest arguments against the ceiling on salaries and other incomes was issued today by Willford I. King, professor of economics at New York university. He argues that the limitation destroys the profit incentive to which workingmen are indebted for their high wages.

Prof. King says that in the nations in which competition is most free progress has been most rapid, wages are the highest and the people enjoy the greatest prosperity. Under free competition "the government lays down the rules of the game and thereafter avoids interference except to assure fair play. Rewards for success are very high. This encourages every competitor to use his talents to the fullest extent."

"It is obviously true," says Prof. King, "that if, after the game is played and the prizes won, the government steps in and confiscates the prizes, the players cannot be expected later to enter into the contest with the same vigor as before.

Patriotism Not Enough.

"But this is wartime. Does not patriotism now furnish sufficient incentive to make each man do his best? Such does not seem to be the case with laborers, for they have everywhere been striving vigorously for wage advances.

"A decrease of even two or three per cent in the efforts of management will probably more than offset any revenues gained by the government thru income limitation. To assume that, if rewards are taken away, managers in general will not curtail their efforts more than two or three per cent, stretches one's faith in human nature very far.

"The average man is also likely to overlook the fact that, in a capitalistic society, most of the funds needed to finance industry come from the savings of the wealthy. If the government, by taxing away the incomes of the rich, makes such saving impossible, private industry will not be financed."

4 to 5 Inch Fall of Snow and 10 Above Predicted

A 4 to 5 inch snowfall and temperatures hovering around the 10 above zero mark were predicted by tonight by Forecaster G. L. Canaday. Temperatures will be about 20 above this morning, and will fall slowly thru the day, Canaday said last night, with moderate winds prevailing. Other sections of northern Illinois are expected to be slightly colder, he said.

TROUBLE FOR TOJO! It's the new Curtiss "Helldiver," the Navy's latest dive-bomber, designed to carry a bigger bomb-load, at higher speed, for greater distances than any naval dive-bomber in existence. And at the controls in this test dive, photographed below, is Barton T. Hulse, who learned his flying in the Navy... smokes the Navy man's favorite—Camel.

THEY can look terrific on paper. They can meet the most exacting laboratory tests on the ground. But the final proving ground of an airplane is in the air... when you fly it.

It's the same with cigarettes. The final test of any brand is in the smoking.

Test pilot "Red" Hulse (right) and countless other smokers could tell you mighty convincing things about Camels and their remarkable mildness and flavor, but your own throat and your own taste... your own "T-Zone"... can tell you even more convincingly why Camels are such a favorite on the front line—and on the home front.

WISE OLD INDIAN WARNS: BEWARE OF BUROCRACY!

Look What It Did to Us, He Tells Palefaces.

An 85 year old Indian, who left the Rosebud, S. D., reservation to visit Chicago for the first time since 1887, warned "palefaces" yesterday not to follow the example of red men in submitting to control by government bureaus, even well intentioned, benevolent government bureaus.

The Indian, Steven Brave Bird, knows about bureaus. He has been living under them more than half a century. His brother, Chief Hollow Horn Bear, died in Washington in 1913 while on a mission to see the "great white father."

Honorary Chief of Tribe.

Since 1913, Brave Bird said he has been honorary chief of his Sioux tribe. But honor is about as far as the title goes, he explained thru an interpreter, because dealings within the tribe and with the government are handled by a board of directors chosen when the tribe was incorporated.

The Indian, his long black hair framing his weathered brown face, said he came to Chicago to refresh the memories of officials of the Indian affairs office regarding treaties by which the Indians "signed away their freedom" for a parcel of land and other government bureau promises. The bureaus, he thinks, have a way of forgetting.

As for the land, even government men admit Indian land affairs are in a mess despite two radically different bureau plans under which they have been administered. The Indians have now drafted a plan of their own and for two years have been trying to get bureau approval.

Early Approval Requested.

"Numerous Indians are very anxious for approval at an early date," said the tribe's statement, presented by Brave Bird.

Brave Bird, himself, no longer has land problems. Technically, he owns three and a half sections—2,240 acres—but for practical purposes he owns none. Not long ago, he explained, the bureaus offered old age pensions. The honorary chief landed one. Did he like that? The honorary chief spoke fast and waved his hands wildly.

"He says," the interpreter related, "that to get the pension he, of course, had to surrender his land to the government."

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

S. M. M. asks: "Would there be any place in the services for a man with several years' experience in salvage work? I had two years' business training before I entered this business."

ANSWER: You do not state in your letter what type of salvage business you are in nor the volume of your business. If you have had at least five years' experience in an executive capacity in a million dollar business engaged in salvaging ferrous and nonferrous metals and have a thoro knowledge of sources, collection, storage, handling, and the preparation of these metals for use in industry, you probably can qualify for a commission. A college education is desirable but not essential. However you must have good vision and be able to pass a rigid physical examination. Please give all the details when you write to us for advice.

J. J. H. writes: "I am anxious to enroll in the navy V-1 program, but where does one enroll?"

ANSWER: You must be under 18 and enrolled or accepted for enrollment in a recognized college in a freshman class which starts not later than March 15, and you must be physically sound.

W. J. S. asks: "Will you please let me know if it is possible for two members of the same family to be put in 2-B? One of my sons is a physicist and was sent to North Carolina by the government in July. The other son received the necessary papers [Form 42A] from his employer and went to the draft board. The draft board told him they would have to put one or the other of them in 1-A as two in one family could not be deferred."

ANSWER: This opinion from an Illinois board is certainly a radical departure from anything we have ever heard of before. We have always been under the impression that registrants were deferred by reason of their necessity in civilian activity or war work, even tho several members of a family were deferred. The draft board, of course, can refuse to entertain a plea for occupational deferment on the ground that the "necessity" is nonexistent or does not warrant deferment, but to deny deferment for the reason stated is certainly not in accord with the opinions of selective service or war man power officials.

A. F. H. asks: "Please, can you help me locate John B. Armee, who came to the United States from the Dutch East Indies in March, 1942? It is very important that I find him and being in the army I know of no other way to locate him except by appealing to you."

ANSWER: We are glad to help you locate your friend, and if he will write to us we will give him your address.

SOLDIER CARRIES HIS BRIDE THRU COOKHOUSE DOOR

Sergt. Leon Suter, 30 years old, first cook at headquarters detachment, 158 West Harrison street, army barracks for workers in 6th service command offices in the new post office building, carried his bride over the doorstep into his kitchen yesterday. The former Miss Joy Morrissey, 21, of 4402 Malden avenue, tasted the soup her husband makes and cut the three tiered cake his friend, Pvt. Ludwig Fichtel, baked for them. She pronounced everything excellent and beamed at her husband, all of the other cooks, and the cooks' helpers.

The Suters were married Friday. Mrs. Suter and her mother, who is known professionally as Tex Morrissey, are a comedy novelty vaudeville team.

$500,000 IN LIQUOR SEIZED, 300 FACE TAX LAW TRIALS

U.S. Agents Push Raids in Three States.

More than 300 arrests in the last few weeks and the seizure of $500,000 worth of liquors were reported yesterday by E. C. Yellowley, federal administrator of the alcohol tax unit, in connection with the collection of the federal floor tax on liquor that went into effect Nov. 1.

Yellowley, who has charge of the collection of the tax in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, said he has more than 100 employés auditing the returns made by liquor dealers under the provisions of the tax law. When his audits are complete he said he expects to arrest many more tax cheaters.

Violator Gets Jail Term.

On Saturday Federal Judge William H. Holly sentenced Sol D. Neiford, owner of a liquor store at 1660 West 47th street, to 30 days in jail for attempting to evade the tax on 200 cases of liquor stored in his mother's home. Yellowley said this was one of the first trials to result from his arrests, but that many more are in prospect.

"It may be that the courts will confiscate the liquor and order it made into explosives," Yellowley added.

Bonded 100 proof liquors comprise the bulk of the seizures, the government official said.

Found Hidden in Odd Places.

"We found the liquor hidden in homes, garages, basements, attics, and in dilapidated automobiles," Yellowley said. "The new law requires payment of $2 per 100 proof gallon on all liquors in stock on Nov. 1, and is called a floor tax. Liquor that is 80 proof pays 80 per cent of the $2, or $1.60 per gallon, and the tax on liquors of lesser proof is proportionately lower."

AND YE SHALL KNOW THE TRUTH, AND THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE.

AFTER HENDERSON.

Leon Henderson was, for all practical purposes, an invention of the New Deal. He was nobody until the New Deal came along and found a place for him in the outer circle of brain trusters. Soon he was pushed into the inner council and eventually was given the august job of bossing the price administration and of rationing supplies to civilians. He got there by being a left winger among left wingers, an extremist among the New Dealers.

Now he is to be succeeded by Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan, defeated for reëlection as United States senator in the overthrow of the New Deal at the recent election. Mr. Brown's nomination to the OPA has been unanimously approved by the committee on banking and currency and there is no doubt that the senate as a whole will vote confirmation.

The dispatches from Washington say that Mr. Brown will have as his first problem the unscrambling of a mess of contradictory and otherwise confusing orders and regulations. There have been intimations that he intends to scrap much of the Henderson paraphernalia of price administration, rely less on compulsion, and place more emphasis upon voluntary coöperation.

It remains to be seen whether Mr. Brown will follow this course and if so whether Mr. Henderson's policies have not caused so much confusion and hardship that no means can be found of restoring faith in price administration. Mr. Brown's task is the more difficult because it is inherently next to impossible to keep prices down when consumers have more money in their pockets than they ever had before and when many goods are scarcer than they have ever been before.

Nevertheless, Mr. Brown will start his work with a considerable advantage over his predecessor. The new man has just gone thru a chastening experience. He was repudiated by the voters of Michigan because he carried the New Deal label. He is much closer to the people than Henderson ever was, and he knows he was licked because the people of this country are sick of burocratic tyranny.

That knowledge will help Mr. Brown avoid a great many of the pitfalls that Mr. Henderson was always stumbling into, apparently from choice. In particular, there is little in Mr. Brown's record to suggest that he shares the sadism that is so widespread among New Deal administrators. As a man with experience in politics, he knows that there is no political glory in making people suffer just for the fun of seeing them squirm.

CLARE HOFFMAN.

For a number of years Rep. Hoffman of Michigan was, to all appearances, a lonely figure in congress. He was outspoken in his opposition to the dictatorial trend of the administration, to its friendship for Communists and communism, to its waste and extravagance, to its bias against business, and to its recklessness in domestic and foreign policy. Others in both parties may have shared his convictions, but few of his colleagues had the hardihood to speak out and no man in either house or either party was as uncompromising in his opposition as was Mr. Hoffman. It followed as a matter of course that no member of congress was more thoroly vilified by the bleeding hearts and the fellow travelers.

Since the defeat of the New Deal on Nov. 3 Mr. Hoffman has been saying the same things he said before, but now his words carry a new authority. More and more congressmen are coming out of the cyclone cellar to join him and the little band of outspoken men of which he was a leading spirit.

Mr. Hoffman's reputation in the house has been greatly enhanced and no doubt will continue to grow. He has consistently spoken for the people of this country and, as his record of reëlections shows, the people of his district have consistently supported him. He has kept faith with them and they with him. He and the growing band of congressmen who share his opinions may feel confident that their doctrine is that of the majority of the people of this country.

UP TO HIS NECK.

Charles Poletti, the 29 day governor of New York, was in deep enough to begin with for pardoning the union terrorist, Alexander Hoffman. Now he has second guessed himself and succeeded in getting in just a little deeper. His latest explanation is that he did not study Hoffman's police record and knew none of the pertinent facts when he commuted this muscle man's sentence.

Hoffman, general manager of a local of the CIO Cleaners and Dyers' union, had been sentenced to three separate penitentiary terms. He had served less than eight months of a four to eight year sentence for arson when Poletti, as a parting gesture of contempt for the people of New York, turned him loose. Poletti had the effrontery to say at the time that Hoffman had enjoyed "an excellent record prior to his conviction."

Hoffman was only one of 55 convicted criminals given pardons or commutation of sentence during Poletti's brief tenure as governor. Poletti evidently wasn't afflicted with the same scruples as Gov. Herbert Lehman, who resigned before the expiration of his term to make way for his lieutenant governor. It may be that there were certain debts to be paid off to the criminal population and Mr. Lehman didn't want to do what Poletti was later caught doing. If that is the fact, Mr. Lehman's resignation was prompted by the desire to give Poletti an opportunity to effect the prison delivery.

It developed that the Hoffman commutation was granted by Poletti without consulting the state board of parole or the judge or prosecutor who had sent Hoffman to prison. When the parole board ruled that, despite the "excellent" reputation accorded Hoffman by Poletti, it "would not be in the interest of the public" if the terrorist were permitted to resume his union job, Poletti decided he had better clean himself up a little with the public. His new plea is ignorance. He knew nothing, he says, about Hoffman's four arrests prior to conviction, chiefly relating to the use of stench bombs, arson, and acid throwing as means of extending the province of his union.

Poletti placed curious emphasis upon the denial that the pardon of Hoffman had anything to do with support given Poletti by the American Labor party when he ran unsuccessfully for reëlection as lieutenant governor in the last campaign. The party thrives on alien support under left wing leadership and Hoffman stands in well with the followers of the Communist party line or, more accurately, curlicue.

As for his ignorance, that can be conceded. When he limped out of New York politics, his New Deal pals had a job waiting for him in Washington with the war department. He candidly admitted in an Associated Press interview that he didn't have the vaguest notion of his new duties. When a reporter persisted, "Do you mean to say you took a job without knowing what it was?" Poletti replied, "Sure. What difference does it make?" It looks as if the New Deal has acquired a natural.

RAILROADS IN TWO WARS.

The increase in railroad efficiency has been one of the outstanding achievements in the United States during the war. The performance is the more remarkable because of the contrast with what happened in the last war. Then there was such a jam of traffic that a fuel shortage developed, and all manufacturing operations east of the Mississippi had to be stopped for five days to let the roads catch up.

This time the railroads have moved promptly all the freight delivered to them. With a half million fewer cars than they had in the last war, and 22,000 fewer locomotives, they have carried 55 per cent more freight than they did then. The cars, to be sure, are considerably bigger than they were in 1917, but until recently cars were not loaded to full capacity.

The load of the average car of less-than-carload freight has been increased from less than 5 tons to more than 10 tons. This released 80,000 cars per week for other work. Other savings were accomplished by loading each car of carload freight more fully. The average freight car now carries 40 per cent more than in the boom year 1929. At the peak last fall the railroads were using fewer cars than in the peak week of 1941. While freight movement was one-third larger last year than the year before, much of the increase coming in the latter half of the year, the roads used fewer cars to do the job.

With 1,800,000 freight cars available against a probable maximum loading of a little over 900,000 cars in the biggest week, with cars being loaded fully, and with freight receivers releasing cars promptly, the problem of keeping goods moving over the country is being handled without the necessity for making drastic changes in our economy. A case cannot be made for rationing of freight service or for shipping priorities. Action to prevent business men from sending goods to customers wherever they may be in this country, the limitation of so-called cross hauls cannot be justified. Those who want to restrict the use of newsprint, for example, and claim that it is necessary because of the transportation situation, have not a leg to stand on.

Passenger transportation is a horse of a different color. Railroads are being asked to carry more passengers than they are prepared to move. There are several reasons for the inability of the railroads to do the passenger job as well as they are handling the freight job. Passenger automobiles used to carry 90 per cent of the people who traveled between cities, and railroads only 8.5 per cent. Gasoline rationing has shifted a large part of the traffic to the rails. Passenger traffic has also been seriously complicated by the movement of troops. No one will object to any troop movements which are necessary in fighting the war, but the advantages of sending New England troops to the southwest for their training, and Texas boys to the eastern seaboard are not apparent.

Conscripts have been sent clear across the continent for infantry training, only to be sent all the way back again to the other coast for shipment to a battle front. The effort seems to be to use as many passenger miles as possible with a given number of troops. The restriction of military and other travel to what was necessary would go far toward relieving the shortage of passenger service.

RARE THESE DAYS.

[Columbus, O., Evening Dispatch.]

Announcement was made a few days ago that the will of the late Walter P. Murphy, who was president of the Standard Railway Equipment company, contained a bequest of 20 million dollars to Northwestern university. This is said to be the largest single gift left to an American educational institution since 1924, when James B. Duke willed 40 millions to Trinity college, now named Duke university after its benefactor. The bequest puts Northwestern to fifth endowment ranking among the nation's schools.

This is the sort of benefaction that was common in the era of rugged individualism which the New Dealers have sneeringly denounced. Here was a man who earned a large competence in business and, out of a sense of responsibility to the nation which had made his success possible, left a huge sum of money that will work for the nation's welfare long after his death, as a permanent endowment for an institution doing the vital work of educating youth better to face a difficult future. It is the sort of benefaction that, in larger or smaller measure, has contributed incalculably to the upbuilding of the world's finest system of higher education—which includes not only the large universities but the small liberal arts college and numerous normal schools for teacher training as well.

Unfortunately it also is the sort of benefaction that is becoming increasingly rare under the impact of crushing taxation, the harassing of business and industry and what often seems a studied administration policy eventually to force independent and self supported educational institutions, large and small, into a common mold, supported by federal subsidy—which in the end means federal control.

'TIS PASSING STRANGE.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

In glancing over an item about Mrs. Pasquale Di Cicco [formerly Gloria Vanderbilt], we observed that an accounting of her estate, filed in Surrogate's court, showed that its value is estimated at more than $4,000,000 and, in 1942, produced an income of $136,457.

But Mrs. Di Cicco is not worried about President Roosevelt's $25,000 income limitation because it does not apply to income received from investments. If, on the other hand, the executive of some industry, who works hard every day, received a salary of $136,547, he would have to turn all but $25,000 over to Uncle Sam.

Like the lily in the fields, Mrs. Di Cicco toils not, neither does she spin; yet she is favored over the industrialist who is contributing his brains and energy to the war effort. This, indeed, is passing strange.

The fellow who buys a suit, to be delivered after the war, had better remember the food rationing effect on his waist measure.—Indianapolis News.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the gusts fall where they may. Pat. U. S. Pat. Office

ONE TOUCH OF NATURE—

According to excellent testimony, the bird that perched on Rickenbacker's head [not shoulder] and thus became a lifesaver was not a seagull but a tern. Lt. Whittaker, in telling his story to Charles Leavelle [THE TRIBUNE, Jan. 15], calls it a sea swallow, but that is a popular name for a variety of tern.

* * *

Wherever you find large expanses of open water, salt or fresh, you are likely to see terns. You can observe them on Chicago's coastline from the upper deck of an Outer drive bus. In the South Pacific, in the North Atlantic, and even in Great Salt Lake of Utah, terns are a common and pleasant sight. They are smallish, for sea birds, and by no means as impressive in flight as the gull. They are neatly marked in combinations of white, and gray, and black, according to the species, and their range is practically global.

* * *

The exact name for the tern that saved Rickenbacker and his raftmates may never be known, unless there was an ornithologist among the castaways. This family of marine flutterers includes 75 species. But since Lt. Whittaker calls it a sea swallow, one may assume that it was the common tern, which carries the Latin word for swallow in its scientific title. But it should become known forever as the Rickenbacker tern.

* * *

In perching upon Rickenbacker's head, this tern was following a law of its nature. It loves to perch upon any sustaining object, fixed or floating, that it can find in its watery element. Apparently it is not as strong-winged as the gull and is eager to take a rest whenever possible. If a perch is lacking it will light on the water and float in great content for hours.

* * *

Flocks of terns are often seen along the Chicago shore, floating in harbors, or perching on the outer piers. When they are in this resting mood they are almost as immobile as stuffed specimens in a museum. But there is an aloofness of the open sea in their souls, and unlike the gulls they are shy of close contacts with the haunts of men.

CAVALRY OF IRON.

Beneath the sea or winging thru the skies,
The bold and venturesome go day by day,
Performing feats of valiant enterprise
Which all but take our raptured breath away.
In awkward plated craft upon the land
Go other men whose deeds are much less known;
On Russia's snow or Libya's burning sand
They wheel and fire to gain or hold their own.

The cavalry of modern war, the tanks
Advance with crunching, clattering, banging sound.
Tho here and there great shells make gaps in ranks,
These monsters fear no plain or broken ground.
Brave men were those in Charge of Eight Brigade—
So these who guide Behemoth on his raid.

Hats Off to the Kentucky Coffee Tree.

Why should we here in the Mississippi-Ohio valley get all "het" up over the coffee shortage? For we have a good substitute in the wild woods that has F. D. R.'s leftover grounds beat all hollow. From New York to Nebraska and thru the south in the states that border on the Mason and Dixon line there grows the gymnocladus tree, sometimes attaining a height of 100 feet, bearing a seed that greatly resembles the coffee bean. This, when roasted, was the coffee that served our forefathers before the American revolution west of the Alleghenies and probably the only coffee that George Rogers Clark and his little band of hunters knew when they passed up thru "Egypt" en route from Fort Massac on the Ohio late in June, 1778, to take Kaskaskia from the British.

We have a tree in our yard in Herrin, Ill., which has suddenly come into high respect, and before we reboil the grounds of leftover coffee à la Roosevelt we shall turn to the gymnocladus tree, known to Daniel Boone and his pioneers as "the Kentucky coffee tree."

WASHINGTON PRAYED.

The wastes around were still as stone.
The winds' wail, to the black skies blown,
Seemed but the echo of his own,

While ragged sentries to and fro,
Tracing with blood the bitter snow,
Saw freedom lost and hope laid low.

There in the gloom, the failing light
Of Valley Forge's loneliest night,
His broken voice to heaven took flight.

Long, long he prayed. But when he stept,
Strong for each tear his tired eyes wept,
Back to his soldier's couch, and slept,

God answered—and in answering gave
America free, America brave,
Her chance a whole lost world to save.

The Coroner Was Called.

I've just found a good use for Christmas ties. Good-by, folks. The Purple Prince.

You must not close the barn door on white horses and leave the mounts of G troop, 2d U. S. cavalry, out in the weather. This was a gray horse troop, and in 1898, when a soldier serving less than his third enlistment was dubbed a rookie, many of the mounts had been long enough in the service to have become more white than gray. SING YOUR SONGS.

O, sing your songs . . .
And sing them loud, with clear refrain.
O, sing your songs
With hope and faith that all the wrongs,
Grim heartbreak, grief, and deadly pain
Will be transmuted into gain. . . .
O, sing your songs!

THE WANDERING NEEDLE.

MEDICAL lore abounds with stories about needles which appear suddenly in some part of the body. Most of the tales relate that the articles were lost months or years ago. Favorite regions for their début are the bottom of the foot, the elbow, or somewhere in the thigh.

By and large, most of these yarns are true. There is ample evidence that once a foreign object has been introduced beneath the skin, muscle action will push it into unheard of positions.

The London Lancet describes the case of a 21 year old gunner who complained of soreness in the lower back. X-ray films disclosed part of a needle lying inside the spinal space. Inquiry elicited the fact that when the lad was 4 years of age, he had been rolling on the floor. The article in question had thrust itself into his back and snapped off. Two attempts at removal failed.

Until his present symptoms arose, he had not been bothered. Aching was worse when sitting or on bending the head forward. Under a general anesthetic, the spinal canal was opened and the needle was found lying alongside one of the nerve filaments.

Similar reports cite striking wanderings. The end of a hypodermic syringe, inserted near the bend of the elbow, was recovered two hours later in the region of the shoulder. In this brief interval it had migrated approximately 10 inches. In another instance, a darning device pierced the foot. Immediate surgery failed to locate the fragment. Four weeks later, pain was observed on the inner side of the thigh, whereupon an incision revealed the strayed bit of steel.

The famous British surgeon, John Bland-Sutton, became interested in the subject of missils in the heart. He recounted a number of authentic cases wherein survival had followed wounds of the pumping organ made by slivers of wood and bullets.

On one occasion, a lead pellet had worked into the circulation. It had come to rest in the right lower chamber of the pumping organ where it did little harm. There was no wound of the heart proper. The ball had entered one of the large veins and had been carried forward by the current of blood. Fortunately, it had become fixed, otherwise it might have been transported to the lungs—with disastrous results.

We can well understand what may happen to a small birdshot should it find its way inside an important artery. With the healing of the wound, the particle may be borne along until the diminishing caliber of the tube stops further progress.

Apparently movements can force sharp objects long distances. The general direction is toward the trunk. On the other hand, certain substances will be retained at or near the site of penetration. Numerous authorities have recorded the extraction of invaders which have remained within the tissues for 20 years or more. Most of these do no damage. Nature seems to enfold them in a capsule of fibrous material which protects the surrounding structures.

Metallic fragments can now be located with great accuracy. Thru the use of X-ray plates, taken in two or more planes, the offender can be spotted. But no time should be lost in resorting to surgery, as the "intruder" may transfer its habitat within an hour or two.

NEEDS VITAMIN D.

Mrs. C. writes: My 16 month old daughter is extremely bowlegged. What can be done?

REPLY.

Ask your physician to check for the presence of rickets. Cod liver oil, sunshine, and special feedings may be required. If a true deformity is discovered, the services of a good orthopedist will be in order.

POLITE DOCTOR.

S. K. writes: My stomach protrudes and my doctor tells me it isn't fat but meat. I would like to correct it without wearing a girdle. Will exercise cure me?

REPLY.

Meat or blubber—it is all the same. A well fitting abdominal binder plus appropriate exercises will help. Do not linger too long at the table.

THE OLD DEAL.

Winchester, Mass., Jan. 13.—Don't call it the New Deal; call it the Old Deal. That's what it is. The first genuine New Dealer died 2,500 years ago. He was the Athenian statesman, Solon. Granted unlimited power, he debased the coinage, lowered interest rates, canceled agrarian debts, planned the redistribution of national wealth, interfered with personal affairs, instituted economic and constitutional reforms that met with such opposition he left Athens and did not return for 10 years.

Before Solon issued his edict for clearing off all debts he told three friends what he was going to do, but assured them he would not meddle with land and possessions. Consequently they hastened to borrow large sums of the bankers to buy land before the edict was promulgated. The law canceled their debts, they held the land, the bankers held the bag. This artifice has been practiced in principle in all manner of finance from that day.

In 320 B. C. the Chinese emperor Ching of the Chou dynasty set down principles of inflation and deflation which have not changed since that time.

The Old Deal, tried and found wanting over a period of more than 2,000 years, camouflaged by dream pictures, sophism, false doctrine propaganda, and dubbed the New Deal by the present administration, is the greatest gold brick a misguided people ever bought. It should be amalgamated with the New Thought club of the Ladies' Sewing circle. They belong to the same species. No principle of government or economics or thought ever emanated from their minds that was not hoary with age 2,000 years ago. And this theatrical administration calls the old thing the New Deal.

The "Old Deal's" gifts to the American people should not be forgotten or obscured by the seemingly more important current events of war. It should be remembered that up to the beginning of the present war it gave the nation a peace time debt of 50 billion dollars, 25 times greater than that at the beginning of the first World war. It has staged the most magnificent exhibition of administrative incompetence and stupidity ever seen in this country, created a domineering organized labor oligarchy immune to law and the Constitution, and given the nation an emasculated, politically minded Supreme court. It has repudiated the Constitution and made 10 million members of organized labor dictator over 50 million unorganized, and a few years ago elected an underwritten congress that gave the people the abominable silver purchase act and the class favoring Wagner act. It has given lucrative federal jobs to thousands of incompetents who were never able to earn a good living in private enterprise, allowed labor dictators to collect tribute from men for the privilege of working on war jobs for the government, given the nation a war cabinet embellished with the fadeless trinity, Hopkins, Perkins, Ickes.

It seems as tho the war has reached a turning point and is beginning to go in our favor. That makes the "Old Deal" more of a menace to our cherished institutions, freedom, and good government than Hitler. High taxes are dangerous. They cannot rise above a certain level without destroying the government that makes them. Thus have perished the rulers of many nations. It happened in Egypt, Rome, France, Russia, and Germany. Our own government is imperiled by an administration that demonstrated its complete inability to manage successfully the nation's affairs in time of peace, and now in time of war its administrative mismanagement is more than a scandal. Congress must save us or we perish.

REPAYMENT FOR LEND-LEASE.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 15.—From the way all nations seek help from America, it would seem they acknowledge our way of life to be a success. Right now the very foundation of that way is threatened by the others' way—the dictatorship that has failed them.

For the land-lease help they now beg they should be required to promise to pay, not with money, but by changing to our way of life. And may our people of America see to it, in the next two years, that all those who do not think our way right are removed.

R. M. BARNES.

THE FORGOTTEN HOUSEMAID.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Let the person who is helping to shape the idealism of the disgruntled "untaxed" housemaid, also inform her that when the powers that be were making their wage and hour laws and the social security legislation, they completely and entirely ignored her "profession"—also the agricultural workers.

So, since she was left out of the "give," she should not be too grieved at being left out of the "take."

ANOTHER "KITCHEN MECHANIC."

AN ASSIDUOUS BOWLER.

Green Bay, Wis., Jan. 13.—Maybe "A Disgusted Wife" has found an answer to the bowling problem. I bowl once a week in a league but am home at a very decent hour. My husband also bowls once a week in a league but never gets home until 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning. I would appreciate knowing what a man is doing out all night if he is behaving himself. Bowling is healthy, but not when it is done that way.

WIDGIE OF GREEN BAY.

ICY STREETS.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Attention is called to the neglected icy condition of our streets and sidewalks. At most intersections, all crossings, and most sidewalks outside of the loop, the peril of breaking a leg or an arm is a constant threat to all. For the duration of this winter, with help short everywhere because of the war, we ask in all kindness that home owners and janitors apply sand or ashes.

HAROLD'S LAMENT.

Poor old gram-maw. Her naughty grandchildren won't mind her and the old lady is too feeble to go after them with a broom. LEON E. REED.

THE BAN ON SLICED BREAD.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Effective Jan. 18, the bakers will be prohibited from selling sliced bread. It will be necessary for thousands upon thousands of housewives to rush out and buy knives. Knives are made of a vital type of steel. The housewives will also have to buy bread boards upon which to slice this bread. These boards are cut with steel saws and planed by steel, which is said to be short and surely is needed in the war effort.

As in all the present unintelligible bureau regulations, the citizen finds it hard to arrive at the basic reason behind this act. Probably it is to remind us as we cut our daily bread, that today, thank heaven, we have bread, and tomorrow, under regulation, we will have neither saws, planes, nor bread boards, much less bread. RICHARD HENRY.

MICHIGAN AVENUE VISION.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Today as I walked down Michigan avenue—bang!—a vision hit. I saw our vast lake front park growing fields of corn. Cows were drinking from the Buckingham fountain. And there was a huge pond of fish across from Orchestra hall.

It was an eye filling picture. Our office girls were feeding some beautiful white chickens. I recognized our office manager milking a cow. A sign nearby bore this legend: "Civilian Feeding Project."

SALES TAX DEDUCTION.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. According to a popular income tax guide, sales tax is deductible when computing one's federal income tax. An example is given, showing how much state sales tax may be allowed by a man earning $3,000 a year who spends an average of one-third his income in purchases. 2. Is the so-called Illinois sales tax in fact a deductible sales tax? 3. It is my understanding that the 2 per cent paid in Illinois on sales is actually a retailer's occupational tax, popularly miscalled a "sales" tax. L. S.

1. It is talking about deduction by the person who pays the tax. Under Illinois law the sales tax is paid by the retail dealer rather than by his customer. The customer merely pays the increase in his price.
2. No, as far as the retail purchaser is concerned.
3. Correct.

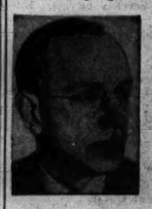
SOCIAL SECURITY EXPANSION PLAN CALLED A DREAM

Publisher Raps New Deal Vision of Utopia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—The American people should not let themselves be carried away by dreams of a social security utopia, Walter D. Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing company, warned today in response to a proposal by Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the social security board that social security benefits be greatly expanded.



Walter D. Fuller.

Participating in Theodore Granik's American Forum of the Air, broadcast over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network, Altmeyer advocated an all inclusive system of social insurance. Costing the employer and employé each about 5 per cent of the worker's wages, the program would offer protection against the hazards of ill health and disability in addition to existing social security benefits.

Some One Must Pay Bill.

Declaring that in the end some one has to pay the bill, Fuller said that under any circumstance social security is by its very nature secondary to the fundamental activity of making a living.

"People cannot have insurance of any kind unless somebody pays for it," he declared. "The government has no means of getting the money for this purpose except thru payments from those with jobs or from taxes on every one. This money can't be legislated into existence—some one has got to produce it.

"Social security must be related to the fundamental factors of jobs and production. It must be balanced so as to be fair and adequate without being restrictive.

"The expansion of social insurance must be measured against its costs so that the way is always left open for steadily increasing production, steadily lowered costs and steadily lowering prices, for that is the only way for every one to have more and more, and to have continually greater prosperity in America."

Aids to Initiative Urged.

M. Albert Linton, president of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance company, another speaker on the forum, advocated a program that would "encourage initiative and discourage an attitude of looking to the government for handouts."

Linton declared social security payments should not be increased unless increased income is required to meet current social security needs. He said the payments shouldn't be boosted "behind a social security smoke screen when the real motive may be to combat inflation or to raise money for war financing."

Camden, N. J., Jan. 17 (AP).—The aircraft carrier Cowpens was launched at the New York Shipbuilding corporation yards today, the 162d anniversary of the battle of Cowpens in the Revolutionary war.

It was the fourth similar carrier launched at the yards in 20 weeks and a day. Its predecessors were the Independence, Princeton, and Belleau Wood. Mrs. Preston Lea Sprunance of Greenville, Del., daughter of Adm. William Frederick Halsey, United States naval chief in the southwest Pacific, was the sponsor.

The battle of Cowpens was fought Jan. 17, 1781, and resulted in an American victory.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. A. Targ, 2360 Euclid Heights boulevard, Cleveland Heights, O.]

THE QUESTION.

What tactics do you use to get obedience from your younger brothers and sisters? [Asked of eighth grade students.]

WHERE ASKED.

La Salle school, 326 Eugenie street.

THE ANSWERS.

Dorothy L. Fernicar, 1743 Sedgwick street—I'm twice as old as my two sisters so they have quite a bit of respect for me. They think it's a favor to help me do the jobs my mother asks me to do. I let them help me in exchange for being good little girls at other times.

George Kranz, 152 Hill street—The biggest problem I have with my younger brothers is to keep them from tagging along when I want to go out with the gang. The best method I've found is to offer to spend a little of my time with them later. It seems I'm always owing them a good time.

Fred G. Teitz, 1919 Hudson avenue—Whenever there's anything I want my two younger sisters to do I try to make a game of it and then they think they're having fun. When I want my three year old sister to go to sleep I tell her to pretend she is and maybe I won't even know the difference.

Elena Genovesi, 1551 North Wells street—Whenever I want obedience from my little sister all I have to do is to offer to read a bedtime story. She gives me the most trouble while I'm practicing my piano lessons. She annoys me by singing and won't stop until I remind her of the story.

Theodore Kazani, 1616 North Wells street—I earn a little more spending money than my younger brothers and sisters do and it often comes in pretty handy when I want one of them to do me a special favor. I usually promise to buy them an ice cream cone or give them a tip for doing what I ask of them.

Raquel Medina, 1835 North Ogden avenue—All of my younger sisters obey me quite well because I'm the oldest girl in the family. When I do have trouble with them, I usually can get them to do what I want by promising to take them with me to the movies on Saturday afternoon.

BROKER'S AUTO LOOTED.

NEW STATE LABOR LOBBY IS FORMED TO SERVE FOR ALL

Keck, Chairman, Asserts It Bans Politics.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 17.—New leadership for the labor lobby in the Illinois legislature was offered today with the announcement of the formation of the United Labor Legislative assembly, with the stated purpose of giving "workers representation in legislative matters in a fair and impartial way."

William Keck.

The new group is pictured as a revolt against New Deal politics in organized labor and against the political policies of R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and his associates.

William Keck, East St. Louis, president of the Progressive Mine Workers of America, and chairman of the new organization, asserted that "partisan political involvements of those who have represented labor in the past in legislative matters make absolutely necessary a group such as we represent."

No Political Allegiance.

"It should be understood," he said, "that we are not a political group, and have no allegiance to any political party. We want it understood also that we are not to be termed a 'dual' group to any other representation which organized labor may have in legislative matters. Our position shall be, in addition to presenting our own legislative program, to assist in every way possible any bill which is presented in the interests of labor by any other group."

Keck pointed out that the United Mine Workers of America, erstwhile rival to his own mine union, is among the organizations which are affiliated with the new labor legislative assembly.

"Every labor organization in the state, AFL, CIO, or unaffiliated, is represented in his new organization," he said. "Our object is to see that the interests of the workers in this state in relation to legislation be fully protected.

Invite All to Join.

"We invite all labor groups, irrespective of affiliation, to join with us, because we expect to be the predominant legislative labor organization in Illinois."

Luther O. German, Springfield, executive director of labor's Nonpartisan League of Illinois and vice chairman of the new organization, announced a 12 point legislative program which was drawn up by the executive committee of the United Labor assembly Saturday night.

The legislative program repudiates flatly the attempt to increase farmers' taxes which Soderstrom said the Illinois Federation of Labor would make this session of the legislature.

The new group will ask the state legislature to memorialize congress to adopt the Rumi or some similar pay as you go tax plan. Employers and private detectives would be prohibited from "purchasing information concerning labor organizations" under another resolution passed at the executive committee meeting.

Other legislative planks announced by German include raising of state employés' pay, a minimum of $100 a month for state employés, and amendment of the unemployment compensation act providing $24 weekly payments and doing away with the waiting period.

BABY IS KILLED BY GAS FUMES; REVIVE MOTHER

Douglas Hammon, 20 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hammon, was asphyxiated yesterday in the bedroom of the Hammon apartment above a garage at 1214 East 57th street. The father, a divinity student at the University of Chicago, found the baby and mother, Mrs. Mary Hammon, 28, unconscious in the room when he came home. Firemen revived Mrs. Hammon and she was taken to Michael Reese hospital. They spent an hour and a half in a vain attempt to revive the baby. Capt. Arthur Driscoll of the fire department rescue squad said they apparently were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from a coke burning furnace which heats the building.

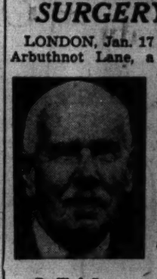
LANE, 'GRAND OLD MAN OF BRITISH SURGERY,' DEAD

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP).—Dr. William Arbuthnot Lane, a British baronet and "grand old man of British surgery," who campaigned for practically everything from longer dresses for women to cleaner beer mugs in the pubs, died here last night at the age of 86.



Dr. W. A. Lane.

He married his son-in-law's sister when he was 79, and gave up a rich practice to foster a "new health" program teaching people to keep slender. When 80 he said, "There is no earthly reason why every human being should not reach his century. Treat your body as you do your motor car and you will feel as young as I do."

He visited the United States in 1925. He was consulting surgeon to Guys hospital and to the Hospital for Sick Children in London.

Seneca Yard Launches Its Second Tank Landing Ship

Seneca, Ill., Jan. 17 [Special].—The Chicago Bridge and Iron company launched its second tank landing ship today from its yards, still under construction here. Five thousand persons watched the big, flat bottomed craft slide sideways into the Illinois river. Mrs. Martha Sherman, Ottawa, Ill., mother of Herman Oliver Koeppe, who died aboard the Arizona in the Pearl Harbor raid Dec. 7, 1941, to become La Salle county's first war casualty, christened the ship with a bottle of champagne. The first tank landing ship built in the yards was launched Dec. 13.

Winter Club's Carnival Set for January 30

BY JUDITH CASS.

MEMBERS of the Winter club and their young sons and daughters are looking forward eagerly to the annual winter carnival, planned tentatively for Saturday afternoon, Jan. 30. Instead of receiving medals in the races and figure skating events, the youthful competitors will get war savings stamps. They will do without refreshments after the carnival, too, for the club has no cocoa or sugar, prime ingredients for the usual after skating party.

The senior figure skating champion, Connie Dunham, won't be here to defend her laurels, as she and her mother, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham Jr., are in Phoenix to be near Lt. Dunham of the army. The junior champion, Miss Sally Alexander, is away, too. She and her mother, Mrs. Benjamin Alexander, are at their Arizona ranch. The club has had its best skating season in several years.

Week-End Skiers Take Advantage of Fine Snow.

The Snow Chase club regrets that many of its members stationed in distant spots with the army and navy are missing the best snow conditions in many seasons around Chicago. President Lucy Harrison will not be seen on the slopes this winter, as she is recovering from an appendectomy. Altho gasoline rationing has curtailed week-end skiing, many Snow Chasers are taking advantage of the fine snow conditions with the aid of trains and busses. The Wilmot bus meets the North Shore train each Sunday morning. La Crosse, Iron Mountain, Wausau, and Slinger Hill have their tows in operation these snowy, winter week-ends.

The ice caught the Chicago Yacht club with its dinghy landings down. So says the club's new monthly letter, the Blinker, which was received by the 350 members a few days ago. The early winter used up most of the fuel supply for the Belmont station and the unseasonable formation of ice forced an early close of the dinghy racing season.

Some sailboats were frozen into the ice in the harbor. It was only the strenuous work of Edward H. Schnabel, Russell Moon, Richard Sutton, and some other stout hearted sailors who broke the ice to raise the landings that saved them for another season.

Philo H. Danly is the club's new commodore, replacing Edwin E. Sheridan. John T. Snite heads the membership committee, and Carl Adams is in charge of entertainment.

Junior League to Greet Visiting Members at Tea.

The Junior League of Chicago can thank the army and navy for bringing a number of attractive "visiting members" to Chicago. The visitors and four transfers to the local league will be welcomed at a tea planned by Mrs. William F. Ogden and her transfer committee for 3 o'clock today in headquarters in the Ambassador East.

Mrs. Charles Greathouse of Indianapolis, Mrs. Wilson Mothershead, who was on the board of directors for that city's league, and Mrs. Halbert Law of Chattanooga, Tenn., are here with their naval lieutenant husbands. Mrs. David L. Chambers of Indianapolis, Mrs. Paige Cofriss of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Robert C. Hobson of Chattanooga are the wives of ensigns stationed here, and stationed at Navy

'Watch on the Rhine' Returns, Superb as Ever

"WATCH ON THE RHINE."

Drama in three acts by Lillian Hellman. Setting by Jo Mielziner. Costumes by Helene Pons. Directed by Herman Shumlin. Presented by Herman Shumlin, in return engagement, at the Selwyn theater, Sunday evening, Jan. 17, 1943.

THE CAST.

Fanny Farrelly ..... Lucile Watson
Sara Mueller ..... Mady Christians
Kurt Mueller ..... Paul Lukas
Anise ..... Eda Heinemann
Joseph ..... Frank Wilson
David Farrelly ..... Scott Colton
Marthe de Brancovis ..... Eleanor Wilson
Teck de Brancovis ..... Frederic Tozere
Joshua Mueller ..... James Dobson
Bodo Mueller ..... Eric Roberts
Babette Mueller ..... Anne Blyth

BY CECIL SMITH.

The returning "Watch on the Rhine" company fell afoul of war time transportation difficulties yesterday, and the first load of scenery and properties did not reach the Selwyn stage door until 6 o'clock in the afternoon. By some miracle of swift enterprise the setting was put together in time to allow the first curtain to rise at 9:08, before an audience which had shown great good nature when Helen Hoerle, the press agent, announced the cause of the delay. It was the latest beginning for a Chicago opening night since "Dame Nature," which I shall never forget because I had to attempt to review a play I had never seen on the strength of an act and a half.

I could not stay to the end of "Watch on the Rhine" and get these paragraphs on your doorstep this morning, either. But I did not need to see the climax of the third act to be assured that Lillian Hellman's superbly human drama of an anti-Fascist who really lives out his beliefs has lost none of its power and sweep and lofty magnificence of meaning. This play has wit and the sharp edge of brilliant repartee; it has tension and suspense and pounding force; it has the power and beauty of simple sincerity; and altho it deals with a situation of 1940 it could not be timelier in 1943.

More articulate than ever, because experience with large auditoriums on tour has taught them to pitch every line so that it can be heard, Lucile Watson, Mady Christians and Paul Lukas still represent the highest level of brilliantly persuasive acting the American stage knows. If Scott Colton and Frederic Tozere are not full scale replacements for John Lodge and George Coulouris, at least they carry their burden fairly adequately; and Eleanor Wilson, in the part originally played by Helen Trenholme, achieves emotional depth as the unhappy wife of a Rumanian blackmailer. The other rôles are still played so as to make the entire "Watch on the Rhine" performance one of the most notable within memory.

Thru the Looking Glass

Low cut evening dresses practically have disappeared from the social scene but lots of women tell us that blemished backs are as much of a heartache as they ever were. Pimples and blackheads are unpleasant and the fact that they're hidden by high necked dresses is small comfort.

The worst thing about them is that they get worse instead of better if they're not checked. The young girls who have them should be particularly vigorous in their efforts to get rid of them; otherwise they'll have a scarred back when they grow up.

Our experience has been that cleanliness is the most important phase of the treatment. The usual daily bath isn't enough. The skin should be scrubbed, almost violently, with a stiff brush and a good soap. If the skin gets tender from this somewhat rough treatment, a light cream can be massaged in before and after the scrubbing.

And ordinary cleanliness about clothing that comes in contact with the skin isn't enough if the skin is prone to this kind of infection. It has to be perfect. Every lingerie strap that rubs against the skin, every bit of underclothing that touches it should be immaculate. Even outer clothing should be watched carefully.

The girl who has a back that is almost always broken out must be twice as fussy about the cleaning of her clothes as her sturdier sisters. Her dresses and coats should be meticulously brushed, and sent to the cleaners before, rather than after they get really soiled. Sometimes dark fabric alone, especially if it's wool, is an irritant. Tacking a snow white handkerchief, a large one, or a piece of clean linen into the top of dresses will help. These pieces can be laundered daily.

Citron, a New Shade, Is Ideal Accent Color

BY REA SEEGER.

There is no wartime shortage of new ideas. For proof, see the gay new color promotion of citron, a springlike yellow with a hint of tart green that will make, remake or revive new and not so new costumes. Think of the tender yellow of the first forsythia flowers in March or the tangy yellow of a lemon and you will know the charm of this citron shade and the dramatics that are possible with it. You'll find coquettish little bretons, the first flirtatious, small, round sailors with tiny crowns and very shallow brims, and wide brimmed, face shadowing larger hats, all in this definitely new color.

Also in this color are smart bags [envelope, pouch, and modified versions of the huge elbow bags], belts, flowers for jacket lapels, gloves, ascots, and longer scarves to tie in a dozen different ways at the throat, and blouses. The blouses are most attractive in the comparatively simple models that are high at the neck line, the better to contrast the vee line of a jacket. Some have ruffles and frills of white or harmonizing citron color, others are tailored, and still others have all the accent trim high at the neck line.

This is the ideal color to combine with all the new clothes of navy blue. Citron and navy blue have a natural affinity for one another. Try citron with dark brown; it's a contrast trick worth money. As for dull black, nothing brings out the depth and suavity of black like this shade. Certain shades of mauve and purple, raspberry red, and all the steel and oxford gray tones are other ideal background materials to spike with this new yellow. If your winter wardrobe has that depressing, wilted appearance, here's one tested remedy.

Rise Stevens Sings Well but Too Winsomely

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Risë Stevens sang her first Chicago recital at the Civic Opera house yesterday, appearing with the History and Enjoyment of Music series on the same stage where she had such shining success two seasons ago as the most debonair Octavian "Der Rosenkavalier" had captured since Maria Olszewska. Transferred from the powdered peruke and silken breeches of Straussian guise to her own brown curls and spreading tiers of pink and black lace, Miss Stevens was just as charming, but not as brilliant. She was, in a word, winsome. She was sometimes, in two words, too winsome. Not every song is successfully speared on a single mood, however captivating.

Miss Stevens' voice is an extremely agreeable mezzo soprano, moderate in range and size, but warm in color, curving at the edges, and seductive in timbre. She uses it well, with a good ear for phrasing, intonation and enunciation, so that she achieves a blandishing tone and has no trouble with such a vocal skirmish as the mock-Handelian coloratura of Diack's jesting "Little Jack Horner."

But she has so concentrated on making a limited voice alluring that she injects the same personal persuasion into everything she sings. Sometimes it fits and sometimes it doesn't. For instance, she was able to sing Delilah's "Mon coeur s'ouvre a ta voix" with such intimate appeal that you felt it might easily do Samson more damage than the flooding opulence of the heroic mezzo for which the aria is written. But the smiling security she put into the "Habanera" was no substitute for the dark brilliance that makes "Carmen" exciting.

It was when Miss Stevens reached her group of lieder that she turned too winsome, and this was unfortunate because it brushed with a touch of condescension, probably quite unintentional, what should have been the best of her performance. She has been well trained in these lovely German songs, so that with more simplicity she could sing them exquisitely. But both in Wolf's "In dem Schatten meiner Locken" and Brahms' "Sonntag" she took on an archness that missed the mischievious and verged perilously on the mawkish. "Meine Liebe ist grün" was sung more simply, with a warmth that had exuberant projection.

Another song beautifully done was Purcell's "I Attempt from Love's Sickness to Fly," sung without a trace of the insipidity that often dogs its vocalization. Novelties were two Weinberger songs dedicated to Miss Stevens, one of them hymning Hoffmann's doll, and neither of great program value. Two of Dvorák's gypsy songs were well done, but Rachmaninoff's "In the Silence of Night" lacked both richness and impact.

Paul Ulanowsky was the good accompanist, not so good when he ventured out as soloist.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

A Woman's World—or Is It?

The beauty editor's desk across the way is a treasure house of Lovely Thoughts, piled as it is with fresh 1943 effusions by the press agents of beauty houses. All last week we brooded painfully over the cosmetician who announced as her prediction for 1943 the frightful fact that the American woman will be "so entangled in the war" that she will spend only "20 minutes daily on her beauty." The end, toward which we were magnetized against our better sense, expressed the cosmetician's confidence that America's women will meet this bravely.

Today we have been contemplating a Thought headed, "Keep your hair shining thru the dimout." It continues, in greater detail, with: "Dimout regulations may ring the curfew on street lights and household lights, but they in no way affect your own personal glitter."

We found this comforting note on returning from a crowded railroad station. It was not one of our better stations. It was an old one, old and dingy and filled that afternoon with the strange half light that comes on a day of uncertain snow with the soot rushing in from the tracks to create a mesmeric haze. A fast train to the south was about to pull out, and a fast train from the west was just pulling in. The passengers for the southbound train, most of them soldiers, were making lingering farewells. Mothers, wives, and sisters were there.

It wasn't at all a noisy scene. It was remarkably quiet. No one had anything to say. Even when the train from the west coast came in, the quiet was not especially broken. Fully half of its passengers were men from the navy, sailors and officers. A number of them seemed pale. Others limped. Suddenly we realized that many of these must be coming home on survival leave. You could tell it from the way their mothers and wives, tears racing quietly down their cheeks, took them in their arms.

Thru it all an army corporal and a girl stood in a corner against a tall window by the train gate, that strange half light beating dust motes down on them. Neither was saying a word, but the corporal, a tall, handsome boy with an overseas cap at a jaunty angle on his closely cropped hair, kept running his hands up and down the curly fur of her coat sleeves. The girl stood there, both arms flaccid against her sides, her face pale and strained as she looked at him.

We wandered about the station for 10 minutes, and every time we came back to the train gate, there they were, the boy still running his hands up and down the curly fur, the girl still looking mutely at him. Suddenly the cry came, "All aboard! "All aboard! Last call!" and the corporal's hands dropped. He didn't kiss the girl. He didn't say anything. He merely touched her hand, set his cap at a straighter angle, and marched down the platform. As she stood looking after him, the dust motes beat a path of light toward her slightly bowed head.

Hospital and Nursing Problems to Be Discussed

Representatives of the Chicago Hospital council and the Central Council for Nursing Education will meet at 2:30 o'clock today in the Arts club to discuss problems of hospitals and nursing. Presiding at the round table will be Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern, associate director of the American College of Surgeons.

St. Chrysostom's Church Observes Golden Jubilee

Golden jubilee services yesterday marked the 50 year span which saw St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church grow from a tiny mission into one of the leading congregations of the city. Bishop Wallace E. Conkling of the diocese of Chicago preached at the festival service in the morning. In the afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Dudley Scott Stark, rector of St. Chrysostom's for more than a decade, was joined in observances by the Rev. Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson, of Fourth Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Dr. Duncan Hodge Browne, of St. James Episcopal church. A reception followed.

'Omaha Trail' Is Just So-So as 'Westerns' Go

"THE OMAHA TRAIL."
Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by Edward Buzzell.
Presented at the Garrick.

THE CAST.

Pat Candel	James Craig
Julie Santley	Pamela Blake
"Pipestone" Ross	Dean Jagger
Mr. Vane	Edward Ellis
Henry	Chill Wills
Jonah McCleod	Donald Meek
Ben Santley	Howard da Silva
Nat	Henry Morgan
Jeb	Morris Ankrum

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

You've seen an elephant fly, and now the films provide you with the remarkable spectacle of a pip squeak railroad engine routing and putting to flight a horde of war minded Sioux. Ain't movies wonderful?

The familiar struggle of selfish interests against progress takes guise in "The Omaha Trail" as the battle between ox train freighters and men who would build railroads.

And so you have Pat Candel, an Irish wagon boss, who has contracted to haul a locomotive from Jefferson City to Omaha, across prairies, over mountains, and thru rushing waters, meeting with unscrupulous hindrance on the part of "Pipestone" Ross, a rival freighter. . . . The engine belongs to Mr. Vane, who, provided he can get it to Omaha, plans to open the first railroad line in that part of the country.

Pat Candel has fallen head over heels in love with Julie Santley, sister of his boss and fiancée of Ross. When he starts out to buy a wagon train with money advanced by Vane, he discovers that Ross has purchased all the oxen. . . Reason—neither he nor Santley want the engine to reach Omaha. . . . However, when Vane offers them $15,000, they agree to do the freighting. Vane's only condition is that Candel must be boss of the train. . . . Julie is to go along in a wagon and, in Omaha become Mrs. Ross.

It doesn't work out that way. . . . Happenings en route—and they are wild!—show Ross up for the wolf he is and give Candel superman rating in her estimation. . . . [Mighty stylish hairdo the lady has for 'way back when days!]

Excellent acting by the men in the cast. . . . Pamela Blake isn't either very good or otherwise. Colorless is the word for her, I guess. I suspect she was a little camera shy. . . . Time and practice will remedy that.

The film has some exciting sequences, but there've sure been lots of better "westerns."

See you tomorrow.

This Home-Mixed Cough Syrup Is Most Effective

Easily Mixed. Needs No Cooking

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough relief. Promptly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 17.—Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins for weeks have had the restraint of angels on "Old Acquaintance," but now they're slapping it out. Boy! You'd think that set was a prize fight ring and the director has turned referee. The only thing that saves them from utter destruction is the yell "Cut!"—instead of the gong. Miriam has to make up as a 42 year old woman and she doesn't like it. Bette says, "I can't understand it, because to me older women are so much more interesting than young ones." But slitchery of the most subtle sort is going on, and at Warner's every one's clapping hands, because they know that this kind of fevered passion makes for a good picture. As soon as Bette finishes her bit in "Thank Your Lucky Stars," she'll head east for a vacation and camp shows. But before leaving here she wants to go out on one of those junkets with Kay Kyser. They've become good friends. Well, she'll have her eyes opened when she travels with Kyser.

Miriam Hopkins.

Bette Davis.

Getting to Be a Habit.

When Hedy Lamarr's lawsuit with Metro blows over, she'll team with William Powell and do "The Stars Look Down"—not the Russian picture with Gregory Ratoff. From all I hear that story hasn't jelled. Speaking of "The Stars Look Down," after Powell read the script he phoned Arthur Hornblow and said, "Those are the best speeches any writer ever put in my mouth." A nice compliment to Michael Arlen. . . . Glad to hear Glenn Anders is up for a good part. He should be working constantly. . . . Vicki Lane, Metro's 16 year old vamp, has a slithery rôle in Kay Kyser's picture. With a proper buildup, they'll have another Myrna Loy on their hands if they're not careful.

Liberal Education.

Soon as Paulette Goddard finishes "So Proudly We Hail," she's off to Mexico City. Wants me to go along as chaperon. Boy! That's one chaperoning trip I'd like, 'cause I'd get a post graduate course that Emily Post would never be able to give me. . . . A group of George M. Cohan's New York friends call themselves "The Yankee Doodlers." They're collecting money to erect a memorial statue to Cohan in Times Square after the war. Among them are Clem McCarthy, Gene Buck, Sam Forrest, John Murray, and hundreds of others . . . Kathryn Grayson's another wife who's going to get into the hair of the men at Fort Monmouth when she goes visiting husband John Shelton. "Isn't there anything we can do to keep wives home?" say commanding officers. . . . Gracie Allen says, "You can laugh at all my relatives, but not Cousin Bertie, who's blasting away at Japs on Guadalcanal."

Well, Fan My Brow!

Frances Langford has been working overtime to get our stars to turn over their 16 mm. films to soldiers up in the Aleutians and Alaska. They have so little entertainment there. But our stars are afraid they'll never get the films back! How about our boys up there who may never come back? Frances is praying Bob Hope will be able to get away soon so they can make another trip.

Spanking Child Not Good for Parents, Either

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Spanking is good for a child."

So says one "school of thought," altho I suspect it's a school of feeling, rather than thinking, since a majority of whippings are accomplished by a parent red with anger or pale with fury.

But is spanking or whipping good for the mother or father who does it? That's quite another matter.

I have a letter, an intense one, from a woman who brings up the point, but unwittingly, since her feeling is chiefly for the children she has seen severely punished. She writes:

"A lovely mother once told me that she never strikes her children any more. This was because she found that after hitting once, something was aroused in her which made her hit again and again, and each blow was harder than the other. When she discovered this, she vowed she would never slap a child again. And that is what often happens."

I'm not a fanatic on the subject, but I see no reason for the use of corporal punishment to guide a boy or girl. I believe it is not only a personal indignity to a child, but also it weakens the thoughtful, wise, self-controled, poised personality that a parent should have.

Women in War Work . . . . . By Kate Massee

Bundles for America is celebrating its first anniversary. Altho it was founded the day after Pearl Harbor, its offices were not opened until mid-January. Headed by Mrs. John P. Cohane, who is also regional director of the midwest headquarters, the organization has a large executive committee, of which Mrs. John Crerar is chairman. Another group, of which Mrs. George Hartford is the head, constitutes the ways and means committee.

More than 50 units have been formed, and in addition to general headquarters at 337 North Michigan avenue, there are two branch offices—a salvage sewing room at 14 North Michigan avenue, and kit packing headquarters at 75 East Wacker drive.

Since Bundles for America was organized, it has given out more than 45,000 comfort kits to service men and on Christmas 50,000 stockings were distributed to sailors and soldiers in this area.

Under the direction of Mrs. John Abbott, more than 350 layettes have been assembled for wives of servicemen at Fort Sheridan and Great Lakes, and 25,000 knitted garments have been given to men in the navy. The salvage sewing room, headed by Mrs. Arthur N. Crane, started supplying the needs of army and navy relief in September. Since that time, more than 250 persons have been provided with complete clothing.

The oldest Evanston unit of Bundles for America celebrated its first anniversary last week with preparations for a second year of intensive war activities. The unit, under the direction of Mrs. Eugene Fitch, has organized a navy unit, and as its first project outfitted the men on a Chicago yacht with knitted garments. Mrs. John Brill Sherman has now taken over the chairmanship.

To meet the need for more knitted garments for navy men, the Austin unit of Bundles for America is sponsoring a benefit luncheon and bridge party on Wednesday at the Better Homemakers' institute, 14 East Jackson boulevard.

The importance of keeping up quotas of surgical dressings for the army and navy was brought sharply home the other day to two Red Cross production workers who were making dressings in the Victory center at Marshall Field & Co.

A soldier wearing the ribbon of a distinguished service cross was thoughtfully watching the women's fingers fly. When they asked, he told them that he was 21 years of age, had been in the army three years, and had been decorated twice after being wounded in action in the South Pacific. Then he added: "I want to thank you women for supplying Red Cross surgical dressings. If you two worked all day long, you couldn't begin to make all the dressings that I needed when I was sick."

The South Central unit, the Negro division of the American Women's Voluntary services, is sponsoring a war bond dinner on Friday evening at the Parkway ballroom, 4447 South Park way. The goal, according to Mrs. Robert A. Cole, president and chairman, is to sell a million dollars in bonds at the dinner.

Those attending are required to buy not less than $100 in bonds. Three hundred persons have already put bond subscriptions past the $400,000 mark. Mrs. George Cleveland Hall will be the master of ceremonies.

Olive Borden of Motion - Pictures Joins WAACS

Fort Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 17 (AP).—An actress has yielded to the lure of the WAACS. A steady eyed recruit just completing her first week of basic training is Olive Borden, 35 years old, who nervously explained "how come," today at Fort Des Moines. "I didn't have any children dependent on me. I wanted to help where I could do the most good. Being a WAAC is harder work than being an actress," she said.

Chicago Troops in South Seek Billiard Table

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

"Our outfit is a brand new one at a brand new camp. Our day and recreation rooms are very sparsely furnished, and we lack lamps, reading material, games, and other items of recreational interest. Our hope is that some one, thru the medium of your column, will offer us a pool or billiard table. Because the major portion of our battalion is from Chicago and the surrounding area, we chose your paper to carry our appeal, if you will. My superior officer has indicated that in the event we are able to find a pool table, there is an excellent possibility that we could arrange to have it transported, and the camp's transportation officer has agreed, so if you will be kind enough to print our request, you can be assured we will be most grateful."

If any reader can supply these men with the requested items, this department will be glad to provide further information.

If you have a lot of hard Christmas candies left from the holidays here's a way to have fun with them. Use them to flavor your cup of tea and omit the usual sugar. Lemon drops and peppermint drops are especially good in tea. Spice drops are, too. Some persons like certain kinds of candy drops in coffee, the rum and chocolate ones, fr instance. Or do you scorn any trimmings but cream and sugar in your cup of the precious brew? Try the tea, anyway.

If there are currants in your cupboard and a jar of honey, too, you might try this ever-so-good coffee cake.

Honey-Currant Coffee Cake.
[Eight inch square cake.]

1 cake yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
½ cup milk
¼ cup honey
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup melted margarine or other fat
1 egg
2 cups sifted enriched flour [about]
½ cup currants

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk and cool to lukewarm. Add honey, salt, and shortening. Beat egg and add. Blend thoroly. Add 1 cup flour and beat well. Add softened yeast. Add currants and more flour to make a stiff drop batter. Beat until smooth. Cover and let rise until bubbly, about one hour. Stir down. Pour into greased pan, filling pan about half full. Sprinkle topping over the batter and let rise until doubled. Bake at 375 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Topping: Mix 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ cup chopped nuts.

And here's a wonderful way to fix liver, that nonrationed meat which is so nutritious it's recommended for a weekly meat dish.

Baked Stuffed Liver.

Select a chunky piece of liver weighing two or three pounds. [This larger piece should make two meals for a family of six, or will serve 12, if you are having company.] Wash and dry well. Then cut a pocket in the thickest part and fill it with a well seasoned bread dressing. Dredge the liver with flour and season with salt and pepper. Place on a rack in an open pan and lay strips of salt pork over it to keep it from drying out. Bake two hours at 325 degrees.

That new soy mix for griddle cakes is good. It's a blend of soy and wheat flours, salt, baking powder and dextrose. Makes light pancakes with excellent flavor.

Versatile Wartime Pattern

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

This is truly a versatile war time pattern. It is a jumper dress with its companion blouse, princess style with neat paneling and guaranteed figure flattery. The design has another function: Use the jumper portion as an industrial apron, made, of course, of appropriate material.

Style No. 2086 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inch bust measurement. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards of 54 inch material for jumper and 2¼ yards of 39 inch for long-sleeved blouse, 1¾ yards for short-sleeved blouse.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost coin preferred)—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The Clotilde pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Infant's Crocheted Jacket

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This crocheted jacket for an infant is extremely simple to make and ideally comfortable for the newest member of the family. The cunning yoke is an added attraction and, when crocheted in a delicate pink or blue, is an outstanding garment in the wardrobe.

For instructions in crocheting the baby's jacket, No. 1248, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York City.

Greek War Relief Drive Raises Total of $363,154

The campaign for Greek war relief ended on Dec. 31 with contributions of $363,154, non-Greeks in the Chicago area gave $182,703, and the Greek committee raised $107,234 among its own people. The remainder came from contributions outside of Chicago, and from 18 community funds. Ships bearing dried vegetables, milk, grain, and medicines are now sailing regularly to Greece, bringing renewed hope to thousands of starving men, women, and children.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Champion and Chief.

"As all bookkeepers, stenographers, secretaries, and office boys know, the main cog in the office machine is the 'boss.' 'Boss' is defined as 'chief o- champion' [slang] and a boss may be either of these or both.

"Since the hourglass once more has been tipped I believe it is time for all contented stenographers to come to the aid of the office and tell why they are satisfied so that other bosses may take a hint therefrom.

"Our boss, we are proud to say, is a champion and a chief, for these reasons:

"1. He is quiet, not blustery; he issues no loud orders but has a set program and every one knows what is to be done and does it.

"2. He says 'good morning' and means it; he has a word for every one from the elevator girl, janitress and mailman to his private secretary.

"3. If a person is absent because of a legitimate reason there is no questioning of loyalty to the office or emphasis on the company's loss because of the absence. In such a case the 'boss' merely arranges for other workers to carry a little heavier load.

"4. He is definitely not a 'wolf' but he notices when a stenographer has a new hairdress or a 'superspecial' pastel wool. He also notices small favors and shows his appreciation.

"5. He dresses neatly and his suits and ties are a perfect match.

"6. He treats all his employés alike and agrees that he could find a better staff nowhere.

"7. At the end of each six months he has a committee evaluate each worker and if the record is satisfactory, gives a raise. This affords the employé something to 'shoot at' and gives the employer and the company an office staff, ready, willing and able."—M. S. [a contented stenographer].

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks were leading the Detroit Red Wings, 2 to 0, with 69 seconds to go in their hockey game in the Stadium last night. But Bill Jennings scored in 18:51 and then, in 19:59½, with a half second to go, Sid Abel scored on a solo effort when his shot caromed off Aud Tuten's skate into the net.

The Blackhawks argued frantically that the clocks showed the marker was registered after the game was over but the Chicagoans lost the argument and the teams had their second tie in two nights, this one, 2 to 2. The game was not resumed after the tying goal, ending as the players took their positions for the faceoff after the debate ended.

The game, third between the teams in eight nights, was played before 15,945, bringing the total to see the teams in the three matches to 45,224.

Hawks Lose Ground.

The outcome, tho it gave the Hawks a point in the National league standings, enabled the Montreal Canadiens to gain in the battle for fourth place.

The closing argument anent whether the game was over was not the first of the evening to be lost by the Hawks. The first was a heated affair in the first period when Referee King Clancy had Mush March, Tuten, and Earl Seibert locked in the penalty box simultaneously. Spectators took a big hand in this debate.

The first goal of the evening, in 4:25 of the first period, was made by the Chicago pets, Doug Bentley, assisted by Brother Max. It started when Jimmy Orlando got the rubber off the boards and skated behind his cage. As the Detroit player completed his arc, Max charged, lifted the puck from his control and passed across the cage to Doug, who executed a perfectly timed shot from 12 feet out.

Hawks Score Again.

A minute after the opening goal, Carl Liscombe was put off for interference and the Hawks organized a power play which jelled nicely at 6:22. Bill Thoms and Red Hamill delivered the puck to Seibert near the blue line and Earl whizzed one toward the cage. At first the goal which resulted from the long shot was credited to Seibert, with Thoms and Hamill drawing assists. Later it was ruled Seibert's shot had caromed off Thoms' stick. So Bill was chalked with the goal and Seibert and Hamill got the assists.

The crowd's demonstration against the work of Referee Clancy, who has been unpopular here since he awarded a tying phantom goal to the Boston Bruins on Dec. 30, developed late in the opening period. The fans began to warm up on Clancy when he banished March at the 15 minute mark for tripping. Seconds later Clancy chased Tuten for holding. The ruling struck Seibert as being so sour that he shot the puck the length of the rink, whereupon Linesman Don MacFadyen, after Mud Bruneteau had tattled, told Clancy he believed Seibert had tried to hit the referee with that demonstrative shot.

Linesman Knocked Down.

Seibert was put in the penalty box with March and Tuten to serve a 10 minute misconduct penalty. It was at this juncture that the crowd really broke loose, and Linesman Steve Meuris was hit on the head and knocked to the ice by a big roll of adding machine paper.

The Hawks put up a cautious defense in the first 15 minutes of the final period and seemed to have the situation well in hand until the last four minutes when the Wing defense men were put off and five forwards took the ice.

The first Detroit goal of the night, the one 69 seconds before the end of the contest was made when Jennings batted home a slow rolling puck after Bert Gardiner apparently had made the save.

The tying marker came out of a harum scarum mêlée as the timekeepers prepared to sound the game ending siren. The puck hit Tuten's skate and scooted into the cage, a development that so provoked Goalie Gardiner that he pulled off his gloves and threw them, with his stick to the ice in a violent gesture of disappointment.

I Wonder.

You were the first girl that I ever knew
And, tho I've met a score of them today,
I've never known another quite like you
In all my journeying along life's way;
Your soul was innocent of any guile,
Your eyes reflected an untroubled heart,
And there was warmth and comfort in your smile
That only simple goodness could impart.

I wonder if you are as fair tonight
After the passing years have gleaned their toll,
I wonder if your eyes still beam with light
Reflecting sweet serenity of soul;
And sometimes in my twilight reverie
I wonder if you still remember me.

I would have lost each one of them, I fear,
The children—and the home—and family—
How true of everything I hold most dear.
Enchanting road I might have walked that day
That beckoned me—I scarcely could resist—
But still I can't regret I went my present way
Because I found so much I might have missed.

THE QUESTION IS: CAN ANY ONE TIE ILLINI FOR TITLE?

It's a Chore for Indiana or Purdue.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Altho three Western conference teams remain undefeated, the Big Ten basketball squads apparently have given up on the idea of stopping Illinois from winning its second consecutive championship. At least, the question for discussion no longer is one of whipping Illinois, but whether Indiana or Purdue, still unbeaten, can tie the Illini.

The Wisconsin title balloon, badly punctured when Illinois whipped the Badgers a week ago, 52 to 40, crashed with a thud Friday evening at Michigan. While Wisconsin demonstrated Saturday night on the same court that it was complete master, the evidence merely accentuated the previous failure.

Illinois won its third conference victory Saturday from Iowa, 61 to 41, and figures to repeat tonight against the same quintet. Purdue is the only other leader in action this evening. The Boilermakers have the second game of their "double header" up for decision at Minnesota. Since the Boilermakers' margin of victory Saturday was only seven points—the score was 49 to 42—they by no means are assured of victory.

Schedule Favors Illini.

Indiana, tied with Illinois with three victories, ran over Chicago Saturday, 55 to 27, and is idle tonight. The Hoosiers, who have beaten Ohio State twice, probably should be regarded as Illinois' No. 1 opponent at least until report is received on tonight's Purdue-Minnesota affair.

Purdue and Indiana will meet in two games. Indiana plays Wisconsin twice and Purdue has a single game with the Badgers. Since Illinois does not play either of the Indiana teams, the circumstance has occasioned unfavorable comment by Madison critics. Obviously the revised conference schedule does not match Illinois against as many top flight teams as Wisconsin. But the schedule was revamped to cut transportation, and this prevented Illinois from playing Indiana or Purdue.

So Close, but Yet So Far.

The cross country mileage no longer counts in these days of gas restriction and rubber saving. It is approximately 80 miles by concrete roads from Lafayette to Champaign and 100 miles from Bloomington to Champaign. But to travel by train across country might involve three days for the round trip and the alternative is via Chicago which makes the Bloomington-Champaign distance approximately 375 miles.

The other side of the argument, of course, is that if Illinois can travel to Ohio State, why can't the Illini travel to Indiana or Lafayette? In the final analysis, however, Wisconsin cannot win a title without beating Illinois. The Badgers have one more chance. This game will be played at Champaign Feb. 20.

The other conference game tonight sends Chicago to Ohio State and it is likely the Maroons will lose their 34th consecutive conference game.

If the Stadium wishes to add an attraction to its double header program, we suggest a Notre Dame-Illinois game. The Irish won their sixth straight Saturday by whipping Northwestern, 49 to 36. Notre Dame vs. Illinois would be the game to double up with the city high school title game in March between the Public and Catholic league champions. George Keogan, Notre Dame coach, said Saturday night the Irish would welcome a test against the Illini.

To the Victors Belong Silver Skates!

Golfing Sno-Birds Play, Come What May, at Edgewater Club

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

President Tom McMahon and his colleagues of the Chicago District Golf association, who will hold their first 1943 meeting in the La Salle hotel tomorrow evening, are pledged to a determined effort to continue the game during the coming year. They have based their program on loyalty to and love of golf in member clubs. Chicagoans can now be told that at least one club will not lack for the faith and affection required to sustain the sport.

That club, of course, is Edgewater, which has the only 18 hole private course located within the city limits proper. It always has amazed otherwise golf-smart citizens to know that Edgewater is one of the oldest clubs in the central states, not to say in the country. There was a time when a few hardy pioneers played over a makeshift stretch of four or five holes in the vicinity of Broadway, Winthrop, and Hollywood.

Founded in 1897.

This then isolated terrain was the forerunner of the present Edgewater club, which was officially founded in 1897 on a new chunk of land bordered by Sheridan road, Damen avenue, and the North Western railroad. In 1910, Edgewater was moved to its present site, which is bounded by Pratt boulevard, Western avenue, Damen avenue, and North Shore avenue.

Edgewater golfers always have been among the most enthusiastic in the district, and they're proving it now with an inner organization known as the Sno-Birds. These brave gents have set themselves to the job of playing each week-end, come wind or rain or snow. Naturally, the present snow has slowed them down a mite, but a few of them still go thru the ritual of swinging a club on the first tee.

The Sno-Birds were originated by Jerry Cooke, the personable pro of the club, who is entering his seventh season at Edgewater. Among the most faithful members of this unique clique are President Frank M. Whiston and Past President Lawrence J. O'Toole.

Snowfall Stops All But One.

Twenty-two Sno-Birds turned out on Dec. 6, after a regular attendance all thru November. The snowfall on the week-end preceding Christmas stopped all but one of them, and most of the regulars got in nine holes two weeks ago yesterday.

On that pre-Christmas Sunday, the lone warrior was J. C. [Butch] Brenza, president of the Metropolitan bank and former Yale football player. He fulfilled the conditions of a private wager by going three holes, with only Cooke for company. For a golf-loving club like Edgewater, Butch stands out for zeal. Last summer he went into the club championship tournament as a 12 handicap swinger. In the semi-finals, he defeated Hi Fargo Jr., 13 times champion, and thereby moved into the title match against Bill Potts, present title holder.

Aside from President Whiston and Mr. O'Toole, the Sno-Birds also list one Charles Evans Jr. This is the same Evans who used to caddy on the Edgewater acreage at Sheridan road, and then went on to pick up such honors as eight Western Amateurs, a National Open, and two National Amateurs.

Three Generations of Fargos.

Other members, who check in each week-end, at least for cards if the course is too heavily laden with snow, include three generations of Fargos, Hiram Sr., Hiram Jr., and Dan; Ed Maginnis, J. R. Leininger, R. E. Beck, P. B. Smithson, S. B. Smithson, Jimmy Steffes, Jack Hafner, last year's president; Jim Flynn, G. B. Higgins, Harry Hebner, A. J. Feicht, C. C. Kawin, Dr. Chester Ihle, Gus Dillon, John P. Harding, Ray Friedley, Frank Keenan, and Bert Wetmore.

Mr. Wetmore, who is approaching his 80th birthday, has been a member since 1905 and heads a list of 31 members who have belonged more than 25 years.

Edgewater is probably the most fortunately situated club in the district in the face of the transportation problems which will confront more than half of the C. D. G. A. clubs. President Whiston said yesterday that the club now has in excess of 300 members, with nine new joiners since Dec. 1, and a few places still available.

FRIESELL, NOTED REFEREE, NAMED LIEUT. COLONEL

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 17 (AP).—William H. [Red] Friesell, nationally known football official, has been sworn into the army as a lieutenant colonel and will report to the director of purchases division, Arlington, Va., Friday for active duty.

Friesell, central figure in the celebrated fifth down game between Cornell and Dartmouth in 1940, served as a captain in World War I. He gave up football officiating in 1941 after suffering a broken leg refereeing a Philadelphia-Brooklyn professional game.

WILLIAMS VOTED PLAYER OF YEAR BY N. Y. WRITERS

New York, Jan. 17 (AP).—The New York baseball writers, often accused of preventing Ted Williams from being recognized as the most valuable player in the American league the last two seasons, announced today that the Boston Red Sox star would be honored with a plaque as the player of the year at the writers' annual banquet Feb. 7.

Williams, winner of the triple crown in the American league in 1942—batting, runs batted in, and home runs—now is a naval aviation cadet at Amherst college and is expected to be present for the award.

Leagues to Meet.

The dinner, which has become an important baseball event in the last 20 years, will be held the Sunday preceding the winter meetings of the major leagues.

Williams led the American league in batting for the second straight year with a .356 average, in runs batted in with 137 and in home runs with 36.

In spite of this all around performance, Williams ran second to Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees for the most valuable player trophy, just as he trailed Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks for the same honor the previous year when the Red Sox slugger hit .406.

Now All's Forgiven.

Three writers from each city in the American league took part in the voting for the most valuable player award, which takes into consideration team play, but the fact that Williams was twice nosed out of the honor by a Yankee served to convince some fans that the New York scribes were prejudiced against the Red Sox star.

BOBBY JONES HAS 5 UNDER PAR 67 IN MIAMI ROUND

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 17 (AP).—Capt. Robert T. Jones, the old master of golf, showed today that army life was good for his game. Playing Indian Creek course here for the first time, with strange clubs, Bobby shot a 67—five under par.

Jones is here on army business. He played in a foursome that included James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio; Brig. Gen. Arnold Krogstad, commanding general of the 5th district army air forces technical training command, and Chick Evans of Chicago, who ruled the golf world 25 years ago.

Del Lamb of Milwaukee, Wis., member of the 1936 and 1940 United States Olympic teams and holder of the world 400 meter and 440 yard records, yesterday won the men's senior Silver Skates title in the 26th annual Derbies held in Garfield park. One of the largest crowds in the history of the event saw eight championships decided in the meet sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Lamb won the senior title by 30 yards in a carefully paced effort. The Milwaukeean skated in 11th place in the 12 man field for nine laps. The race was led for the first seven laps by James De Swarte of the Champaign-Urbana S. C., who then fell, causing the field to bunch. Lamb shot into the lead on the 10th lap to hold his advantage thru the 11th and 12th circuits completing the two miles. The Olympic skater was followed in second place by Jim Holmes of Milwaukee, with Ed Olson, Edgewater Skating club, Cleveland, third. Fourth place was taken by Max Kargol of Chicago's Catholic Youth organization.

Lamb Takes No Chances.

Lamb, who is a member of the Milwaukee police force, did not take any chances. He skated in 11th place while De Swarte made the pace. The crowd realized he was waiting before making his bid, for spectators knew his world reputation as a sprinter. De Swarte slowed the pace going into the seventh lap and Holmes swung wide and pulled up toward the lead with Lamb behind.

When Del made his sprint the race was over, but Holmes beat Olson for second place by less than three yards. Olson had a five yard margin over Chicago's Kargol for third position.

Wisconsin also claimed the girls' senior Silver Skates champion when Veronica Rossman of West Allis drove to first place. Miss Rossman also won the lap prize in this division, as did Lamb among the men. John Martin of the Champaign-Urbana S. C. took the lap prize offered in boys' intermediate competition.

Miss Rossman's victory in the mile title race for senior girls was at the expense of her team mate from West Allis, Bernice Melewski, who previously had won silver skates in the girls' junior and intermediate classes. Miss Rossman took the lead and won by a yard from Miss Melewski, who could not muster a final sprint after the last turn on the sixth lap.

C. Y. O. Wins Team Trophy.

Four of the eight titles went to out of town skaters. In addition to the senior races, John Martin of the Champaign-Urbana club won the boys' intermediate race and Joe Prather, a team mate, took the boys' midget derby for youngsters under 12 years of age.

Chicago's C. Y. O. won three of the eight championships and took the Walter Eckersall memorial team trophy with a point total of 360. This was the third consecutive team victory for the C. Y. O. skaters. They now have permanent possession of the huge silver trophy, the second placed in competition since the death of the founder of Silver Skates in 1930. For the duration, however, names of additional team champions will be placed on this trophy since it cannot be replaced because of priorities on metal.

Roy Parker, of Peirce playground, was the fourth Chicagoan to win a Silver Skates title. Roy skated the half mile for juvenile boys in 44 9-10 seconds to add this trophy to his 1942 triumph in the boys' midget class.

DURKEES TAKE LEAD IN 26TH C.W.B.A. MEET

Durkee's Margarine, with a 2,706 pins scratch score, a handicap of 336, and a total of 3,042, led the team event in the 26th annual championship tournament of the Chicago Women's Bowling association at the Bowling Lanes, 5221 Broadway, at the halfway mark last night. Second were the Double Cola Girls, with a 2,675—351—3,026, and third the Playdium, with 2,695—321—3,016.

Alma Orden and Vaughn Sagert led the doubles competition with 1,207—105—1,312. Tillie Keptalik and Mickey Rodenkirk were second with 1,144—153—1,297, and Catherine Fellmuth and Nina Van Camp were third with 1,242—48—1,290.

Nina Van Camp led in the singles division with 661—30—691. Ann Dinardi was second with 597—90—687, and Florence Coffey, third with 577—93—670.

Goranson's 20 Alleys paced the team scratch score competition with 2,761 pins. The Fellmuth-Van Camp doubles scratch score was high and Nina Van Camp's 661 led the singles scratch

Mother Christens Ship Named After Lou Gehrig

South Portland, Me., Jan. 17 (AP).—With the mother of the late New York Yankees' baseball star christening the craft, the Liberty ship Lou Gehrig splashed into the water today from the ways of the South Portland Shipbuilding corporation. "It was the finest tribute ever paid my son," Mrs. Christine Gehrig of New York said after she had cracked a champagne bottle lashed to a small wooden replica of a baseball bat against the bow of the maritime commission vessel.

Dorothy Ingram Wins in Women's Fencing Meet

Dorothy Ingram of the Hermanson School of Fencing won a women's fencing meet held by the Amateur Fencers' League of America at the University of Chicago yesterday. Approximately 20 women fencers entered the competition. Kitty Wilson was second.

Arrow Points to Del Lamb, the Winner!

This is how the field was strung out at the halfway mark in the men's 2 mile Silver Skates title race yesterday at Garfield park. At the rear is Del Lamb of Milwaukee (arrow), who moved up later for an easy victory. The four leaders at this point were, right to left: James De Swarte, Bill Carnduff, Al Perry and Chuck Edwards, all unplaced at the finish.

MILT SIMINGTON, PRO FOOTBALL PLAYER, DIES

Shreveport, La., Jan. 17 (AP).—Milton Simington, 24 year old guard of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football league, died here today of a heart ailment.

Simington joined the pro ranks after ending his college career in 1940 at the University of Arkansas. He was drafted by the Cleveland Rams and played with that team in 1941.

Milt Simington.

Last August he was traded with John Binotto, a half back, to Pittsburgh for George Platukis, an end. Simington, who was 6 feet 2½ inches tall and weighed 220 pounds, lived in Dierks, Ark.

Simington suffered a mild heart attack last Christmas eve in Philadelphia, where he had gone to participate in a benefit game Dec. 27 between the National Football league All-Stars and the champion Washington Redskins. He was examined and sent to University hospital, but suddenly left Philadelphia Christmas day without staying to see the game. At the time he said he was thru with football forever.

THE GAME WAS OVER, BUT THEY PLAYED ON AND ON

Monmouth, Ill., Jan. 17 [Special].—Here's a game that neither team appears to have lost and it wasn't a tie:

At the end of the regular playing period in the game between Monmouth college freshmen and Augustana reserves, the electric scoreboard showed a 29 to 29 tie. After they played a five minute overtime period the score was 33 to 33. Then they played a three minute overtime and Augustana won, 36 to 34.

But a check of the score books showed that Monmouth freshmen won, 30 to 29, in the first place. So Monmouth won the game and Augustana won the overtime. At last reports both teams seemed satisfied.

FT. WAYNE BEATS STUDEBAKERS TO GAIN TIE FOR 1ST

The Fort Wayne, Ind., Zollners won their sixth National Basketball league game in seven starts last night as they defeated the Studebakers of Chicago, 64 to 59, in Cicero stadium. Bobby McDermott, Fort Wayne guard, scored 20 points to run his season's total to 197 for 12 games. The victory enabled the Zollners to tie for first place with the defending champion Oshkosh All-Stars.

Harridge Leaves Tomorrow for Schedule Conference

William Harridge, American league president, will leave tomorrow for New York City to meet with Ford Frick, National league president, for final work Wednesday on the new schedules for the majors, the baseball official said last night. The conference with Frick is necessary since certain portions of the schedules must dovetail because of cities having a team in each league. Harridge said the work would be completed in one or two days.

RABBITS BECOME MAJOR PESTS IN QUEST OF FOOD

Resort to Stripping Bark Off Saplings.

BY BOB BECKER.

The rabbits in northern Illinois are sinking their teeth into so many thousands of young trees, shrubs, and bushes this winter they are a serious pest in many localities. Feeling the pinch of hunger due to the severe winter, the cottontails are turning to the only green stuff they can find. This source of food is principally saplings, and when the hungry cottontails get thru with some of these small trees, there isn't much bark left on stems and branches several inches above the ground.

When we went on our final rabbit hunt of the year a few days ago with Lyman Barr of Highland Park, and Martin Hogan of Barrington, we noticed the way a large number of rabbits had tramped down the snow near a hillside. We went over to see what the attraction was. It proved to be scores of little crab trees growing on the side of the hill. The cottontails had attacked these saplings with their sharp teeth until they looked as if they had been blasted with shrapnel.

Maul Whole Patches.

On our hunt thru a Barrington marsh where the rabbits were flushed from their seats in cattails and grass we noticed several patches of young trees which had been given a real mauling by the animals.

We had a lot of fun banging away at the cottontails with a couple of well trained springer spaniels serving as efficient canine aids at certain times. One of the spaniels named Spud, a field trial champion owned by David Silberman, of Chicago, made a beautiful retrieve of one rabbit shot by Hogan which went out of sight over a knoll. We didn't see a real fat rabbit in the entire bag. It was apparent the animals are having a none too easy time with so much snow covering the vegetation this winter.

Major Pests Now.

Judging from the letters received from suburbanites the cottontails are a major pest this season, and are killing many dollars worth of shrubs and young trees. [They've gotten two of our 7 foot crab trees despite small fences and other devices to outwit them.] Some of the irate home owners in the suburbs are beginning to worry about the victory gardens they are planning for this spring. Unless the rabbit population is reduced the animals will have a field day in unfenced garden plots this spring.

SPARTAS DEFEAT SLOVAKS, 2 TO 1, IN EXHIBITION GAME

The Spartas and Slovaks, both contenders for the National Soccer cup, met in an exhibition game in the Sparta stadium yesterday, the home club winning 2 to 1. They did it with a patched lineup, three regulars, Jerry Rezak, Jerry Nudera, and David Rarity, having joined the army recently. The Slovak reserves beat the Sparta seconds, 4 to 2, in a preliminary game.

200 File for Golden Gloves Tests Friday

Golden Gloves boxers who file entries today or tomorrow for the 16th annual tournament sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will be included in the list of candidates given physical examinations Friday night. This examination, the first of three to qualify for the sectional bouts, will be held between 6 and 8 p. m. in Trafton's gymnasium.

Approximately 200 boys already have filled out the blank which appears daily in these columns. Each will receive a letter of instructions and a parental consent card. If the boxer is under 21 years of age the card must be signed by a parent or guardian and presented to the registration clerks.

This applies to both novice and open division fighters. While a boy may be assigned to Friday night's examination, he is eligible to report at either of the subsequent examinations. These will be held on Jan. 26 in the C. Y. O. gymnasium, 31 East Congress street, and on Jan. 29 in Trafton's gym.

The tournament is sanctioned by the Central association of the A. A. U. All contestants must register with the association and this can be done on the nights physical examinations are given. The Chicago Tribune Charities will pay the registration fee for novice boxers.

Thompson Bowlers Win Second Straight Sweep

The Thompson's Restaurants won their second straight Chicago Sunday bowling sweepstakes last night, rolling a 3,096 score at Clar-Wyn recreation. The Budweisers and Ace Fasteners tied for second with 2,981. Jack Russell of the Mineralites had the best single game, 245, and Howard Busick of the Meister Braus rolled the high series, 656.

MAXIN AND BROWN MEET TONIGHT IN MARIGOLD FIGHT

Joe Maxin will make his 15th Chicago appearance as a professional in an eight round bout against Clarence Brown, former Catholic Youth organization heavyweight champion, in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

Maxin, who won the Chicagoland Golden Gloves middleweight title in 1940, will be in quest of his 11th victory while trying to stave off his fifth defeat. Joe scored five straight triumphs before losing his first important test to Booker Beckwith in the Coliseum a year ago. He came back to knock out Frank Greene, but lost on a foul to Charley Roth, whom he floored for the count in a rematch. In his last start in this city Joe outpointed Hubert Hood.

Young Joe Wolcott, Cleveland middleweight, will receive an opportunity to even the score with Jack Hill when he meets the Bloomington, Ill., boxer in a six round return contest. Hill defeated Wolcott a week ago, but tired noticeably in the late stages.

Alvin Gomez, south side lightweight, who was beaten decisively by Al Reasoner on Jan. 4, will attempt to make amends in an additional six round event against Kippy Dumas of Detroit. Dumas triumphed over Jerry Pittro recently.

Four round encounters will involve Jackie Nichols, competent Gary 135 pounder, and Bill Parsons of Danville, Ill., and Pete Boles, 132 pounds, also of Detroit, and Young Ted Lewis.

Ed [Strangler] Lewis will meet Ole Olson in the windup bout of Promoter Fred Kohler's wrestling show this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Jack Zeravich and Charles [Gorilla] Grubmyer will oppose Walter Palmer and Pierre La Belle in an Australian tag team match.

FLOUR DEALERS SEEK TO AVERT LACK OF BREAD

Ask Change in OPA Ceiling Basis.

Chicago flour distributors hope to settle their problems of providing flour under government price ceilings to Chicago bakers and avoid a local shortage of bread and other bakery products, spokesmen for the distributors said yesterday. The distributors will be represented at a meeting with the distribution section heads of the office of price administration in Washington, D. C., today, where representatives of markets thruout the country will seek reconsideration of the ruling grouping them with wholesale grocers.

This regulation, which became effective last Thursday, provides that flour distributors operate on a 10 per cent markup as a ceiling over their highest delivery cost in the Jan. 14-Feb. 10, 1942, period.

Seek to Change Classification.

Distributors hope to be classified in the same group as millers and mill outlets operating on a fixed price per barrel basis rather than the percentage markup which they termed inadequate to cover handling costs.

Chicagoans at the meeting are Frank T. Herbert of Johnson-Herbert & Co., president of the National Association of Flour Distributors, and Fred Larsen of Habel-Armbruster & Larsen, representing Chicago distributors.

Flour was placed under a 60 day temporary price ceiling on Oct. 2. No ceiling was put on wheat. Local distributors were encouraged to believe wheat would be released thru the Commodity Credit corporation at a price on which they could break even or make a small margin of profit. This hope faded when they were told that no wheat would be available at less than full parity price.

Flour Ceilings Raised.

The result was that millers' agents, mill representatives, flour brokers, jobbers, and distributors did little business from Oct. 2 to Dec. 2. They were unable to quote profitable prices and bakers and millers did not buy. Flour men looked for adjustment Dec. 2 but nothing happened until Jan. 4, when flour ceilings were raised from $6.35 a barrel to $6.95. This was followed by the Jan. 14 regulation providing the percentage markup. The often adjusted wheat parity stands at $1.37.

Bakers have protested to flour distributors that prices of other supplies, such as shortening, have risen, making it difficult for them to supply bread at the same price. This situation has resulted in the closing of some retail bakeries in Chicago.

Slicing (Bread, Not Golf Balls) an Art in Itself

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—The lost art of bread slicing comes back into its own tomorrow and bakers advise housewives to keep their eye on the loaf and not bear down on the knife.

With ready sliced bread for home consumption prohibited under a government order, the bakers said a loaf should not be cut in its natural position, topside up—it's apt to shred.

Use a Gentle Motion.

Lay the loaf on its side, one baker advised, adding:

"Don't bear down on your knife—use a gentle, sawing motion. Train your eye on the exact point you're trying to cut thru. Then hold the knife flat against the loaf while you're cutting it.

"And be sure the knife is sharp."

It's another job for housewives, along with getting baked beans out of the oven instead of a can.

Wickard Sure You Won't Mind.

But Food Administrator Claude R. Wickard said he was confident housewives wouldn't mind cutting their own bread "if thereby they can contribute toward preventing a price increase and at the same time contribute to the war effort."

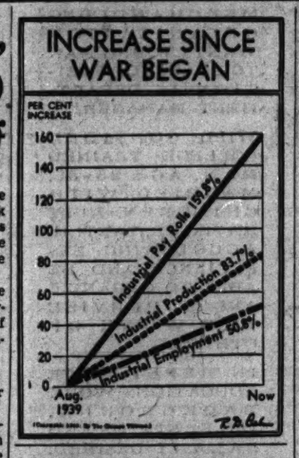
The ban on slicing was announced simultaneously with an increase in flour prices, and with other economies is designed to keep retail bread prices at present levels.

More than labor costs will be saved by stopping the bread slicing machines, food administration experts said. Bakers no longer will have to replace worn parts in the machines. And where some bakers have been using two or three wrappers to make sure that sliced loaves reached the kitchens undamaged, they now will use only one.

People and Events

James S. Thomas, chief of the training section of the war production board, will address the 22d annual meeting of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers association tomorrow evening in the Palmer House. He will discuss business and professional opportunities being created by discoveries in chemistry, medicine, manufacturing, and finance.

Representatives of government agencies and private business will discuss price control, man power problems, and priorities before members of the National Association of Cleaners and Dyers at the organization's two day annual convention opening today in the Hotel Sherman. O. M. Chapman, St. Louis, Mo., is president.



Efficiency Held Foremost Need to Win the War

The American people have laid down four mandates in connection with war and post-war policy for the consideration of the new congress, according to Henry H. Heimann, executive manager on leave of the National Association of Credit Men, writing in the current issue of the association's monthly business review.

Foremost requirement, Heimann says, is the winning of the war in the speediest and most efficient manner possible. The second mandate is that no expense be spared in winning the war, but that funds be judiciously disbursed, and that normal domestic programs entailing large outlays without contributing materially to the war be deferred for the duration.

Next, the people want war expenses distributed on a fair basis, with payments arranged on a pay-as-you-go plan. The fourth requirement is that post-war planning be conducted in such a manner that the peace will not be lost.

"America's business men, having met successfully the war's requirements, must never in these busy days overlook an equally great challenge," Heimann asserted. "That is the provision of adequate funds for sound reconversion to peacetime activities."

Federal Home Loan Banks Pay More Dividends in '42

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 (AP).—The 12 regional federal home loan banks paid dividends of $2,068,438 for 1942 compared with $2,004,441 in 1941, it was announced today. Payments included $1,462,839 to the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which holds $124,741,000 of the stock.

Ship Program Boost Steps Up Plate Demand

The expanded ship building program is resulting in larger plate demands and a new rolling record may be established in January, "following a request to strip mill operators to roll more plates than in December," the magazine Steel reported yesterday.

"Three such producers will increase their output 75,000 tons over December and the top of 1,124,000 tons produced last July may be exceeded considerably," the trade journal added. "This expanded plate output will be largely at the expense of sheets.

Tin Plate Output Lags.

"Canmakers have been slow in placing orders for first quarter and the tin plate industry is operating at about 70 per cent at a season when normally it should be at capacity. Present activity is reducing order backlogs and production will decline if additional orders are not obtained.

"Much of the tin plate for cans to preserve early fruit and vegetable packs must be made during the first quarter as demand in the second quarter always is heavy for later packs."

Production Rate Rises.

The national ingot rate rebounded 1½ points last week to 99 per cent of estimated capacity as "the last vestiges of flood interruption" were erased. The rate at Chicago gained 2 points to 102 per cent.

BARRINGER HEADS SCRAP INSTITUTE ANOTHER TERM

New York, Jan. 17 (AP).—Edwin C. Barringer of New York City, was re-elected president of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel here today.

Other officers elected for a one-year term were:

Philip W. Frieder of Cleveland, vice president; Hiram Winternitz of Philadelphia, secretary, and Everett B. Michaels of Chicago, treasurer.

EVERSHARP.

In December the Eversharp company paid its first dividend in years. Was this because of war profits?—H. G.

Answer: Eversharp, Inc., successor to the Wahl company, began earning substantial profits prior to the war and prior to the company's engaging in war work.

Control of this company was acquired by a new group in December, 1939, and new policies were instituted promptly. There was a complete change in management, products were redesigned, and an aggressive merchandising program was launched. Thru an exchange of stock of the predecessor for stock in the new company, accrued and unpaid preferred dividends of $933,237, and a deficit of $904,387, were eliminated.

A net loss of $345,912, including an operating loss of $107,000, was reported for the new company's first fiscal year, the 12 months ended Feb. 28, 1941, but in the year to Feb. 28, 1942, net profit was $365,276, or $2.52 a share on the common after allowing for preferred dividends. While the company was working on certain prime and subcontracts, these war contracts were not reflected in earnings for the period, officers of the company declared.

No report has been made on earnings for the fiscal year which will end Feb. 28, 1943, altho the president of the company stated that net earnings for March and April, 1942, were sufficient to cover the entire fiscal year's dividend requirements on the preferred stock.

Eversharp manufactures fountain pens, mechanical pencils, desk sets, and pencil leads. The main plant is in Chicago. Subsidiaries operate an assembly plant at Toronto, Ont., and a manufacturing plant at London, England.

Capitalization at Feb. 28, 1942, consisted of 69,528 shares of 5 per cent cumulative $20 par preferred stock and 117,048 shares of $1 par common. Preferred dividends have been paid regularly since the stock was issued in May, 1940. An initial common dividend of 50 cents a share was paid December 28, last.

The consolidated balance sheet as of February 28, 1942, showed current assets of $2,292,287, including cash $189,018, while current liabilities aggregated $903,795, including unsecured notes payable in the amount of $400,000, and $347,167 in accounts payable.

GEN. TIRE PLANS MILL TO MAKE RUBBER OF GUAYULE IN MEXICO

Plans for the construction of a guayule mill in Mexico to provide 10,000 tons of rubber a year were announced yesterday by the General Tire and Rubber company, Akron, O.

Agreements have been reached with the Mexican government, William O'Neil, president, said, under which all the rubber will be shipped to the United States and thousands of acres of land on which wild guayule shrub abounds have been leased from the Mexican land owners.

Request for allocation of priorities to ship the machinery necessary for an extraction mill have been made of the board of economic warfare and early action is expected.

NEW PLANE FUEL TOO STRONG FOR PRESENT MOTORS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17 [Special].—Development of a method for producing aviation gasoline of such high octane equivalent that airplane motors will have to be redesigned to make full use of its power was announced here today by Eugene J. Houdry, president of the Houdry Process corporation.

Since the quality of gasoline thus produced is so high that it is ahead of currently developed engines, Houdry said, its chief value for the time being will be to raise the octane rating of presently produced fuels.

Thru an adiabatic catalytic cracking method the process produces from heavy naphtha an aviation fuel of higher octane equivalent than has ever been developed, he said.

Jefferson Circuit Court, Chancery Branch. First Division.
No. 250248.
Huston Quin. et al, Plaintiffs, vs.
Lincoln Bank & Trust Company, et al, Defendants.

Notice is hereby given that the plaintiffs in the above styled action, under and pursuant to the orders of court, have declared and deposited with the depositories provided for in said action, to-wit: Lincoln Bank & Trust Company, of Louisville, Kentucky, Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company, of Chicago, Illinois, and First National Bank, of Danville, Illinois, a first, second and third dividend to the depositing bondholders, who deposited their bonds with the United Bondholders' Committee, which bonds were secured by mortgages executed by the Provident State Securities Company of Chicago, Illinois, and said depositing bondholders received from said committee Certificates of Deposit upon which such dividends were declared.

The above dividends were covered by dividend checks placed with the aforesaid depositories for the account of the holders of Certificates of Deposit, and which have not heretofore been claimed by such certificate holders, which dividends were declared and checks therefor deposited with the depositories, beginning on March 25, 1938. In accordance with the orders of court, the undersigned, as liquidating trustees, now notify each of such holders of such Certificates of Deposit that unless they appear at the aforesaid depositories and collect their dividend checks by presentation of their Certificates of Deposit on or before February 15, 1943, and in order to settle the aforesaid trust and the accounts of the liquidating trustees, an order will be entered thereafter cancelling all of such dividend checks and converting the proceeds into the trust involved in the aforesaid action for distribution to the remaining unpaid depositing bondholders.

WANT TO BE A CHEMIST? READ THIS

The bars have been let down in regard to educational requirements for chemical positions. We can place you in a substantial paying position if you have had only high school chemistry and can qualify in the draft. If you have some college chemistry or a degree in chemistry we can obtain a salary ranging from $2,000 to $5,000. We are the recognized source of chemical help in the middle west. Come in today and learn the details of these fine opportunities.

Aircraft Carrier Cowpens Is Launched at Camden, N. J.—Wisconsin Girl Wins Senior Silver Skates Championship

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Members of United States army's first mountain troop unit in training at Camp Hale, Colo., pull heavy equipment up a steep incline. The harness arrangement co-ordinates their pulling effort. They wear snowshoes. The troops are conditioned to fight in the roughest type of terrain.

The aircraft carrier Cowpens slides down the ways of shipyard in Camden, N. J. It was the fourth carrier to be launched at the yard within the last 20 weeks.
